Donor's Widow Wants Husband's Heart Back

CAPE TOWN (UPI) — Dorothy Haupt, 22, the widow of heart donor Clive Haupt, said Wednesday she wants her husband's heart back if Dr. Philip Blalberg undergoes a second heart transplant.

Mrs. Haupt said she wants the heart back because a Cape Town spiritualist has told her the dead husband could not rest without his heart.

Finance Study Joint Venture

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

A joint study of municipal-provincial finance in B.C. will be embarked upon by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and the provincial government.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, who made the announcement with UBCM president, Kamloops Mayor Peter Wing, said it will probably be at least a year before any results are made public.

Mayor Wing said: "I'm very pleased — and proud, I might say — to say that for the first time both the municipalities and the provincial government are in complete unanimity on this vital question."

NEED NEW DETAILS

Mr. Campbell said the machinery of local government for the 1970s, as far as legislation is concerned, has been modernized. Now, he said, there is a need to obtain new and accurate details of financial relationships, including proposed federal participation in urban affairs, as well as taxation in relation to quality of service.

"In the past, in my opinion," Mr. Campbell said, "royal commissions have not contributed much in the way of objective data concerning the relationships between the various levels of government, and on the quality of services received by local taxpayers in relation to the level of taxes they pay."

ADVERSARIES OF THEORIES

The minister said this was true of the recently completed Ontario royal commission on municipal financing, which took 4½ years to complete at a cost of some $5,000,000.

Apart from the question of cost, he added, the commissions had in some ways a basic disadvantage — the parties appearing before them, except

Spock Given Two Years

U.S. Told to Wake Up 'Before It's Too Late'

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, the famed pediatrician-author, was sentenced to two years in prison and was fined $5,000 Wednesday for anti-draft activities, but shortly afterward promised to continue active opposition to the Vietnam war.

Spock, 65, was convicted with three other men June 14 on federal charges of conspiring to counsel, aid and abet young men to avoid the draft.

Two-year prison sentences also were imposed on Yale University chaplain William Shane Coffin Jr., 43; author Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Me.; and Harvard graduate student Michael Feber, 23. Coffin and Goodman were fined $5,000 and Feber was fined $1,000.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford stayed the sentences and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds pending their appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court.

Addressing a news conference after the sentencing, Spock repeated his contention that the Vietnam war is illegal, an argument that Judge Ford rejected as a defense at the trial.

"I'm still not convinced that I broke any law. There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam war," the pediatrician said in a loud voice, sometimes breaking with emotion.

"I certainly intend to go on working against the war in appearance across the country," he said.

Pounding on a table, he said: "I say wake up. Get out there and do something before it's too late. This war could be stopped if millions of Americans stood up and shouted: 'Let's stop this war.'"

Baby expert put to test outside court

Jubenville Urges 'No'

By DON COLLINS

Settlement came to the long, boisterous forest industry dispute Wednesday, but within hours its permanency was under a cloud of doubt.

A memorandum of two-year agreement signed in the afternoon split the union negotiating team down the middle, and the bitter dissent is scheduled to spill over the rank and file.

It appeared that more than half of the 26,000 to 28,000 forest workers involved might be advised by their bargainers to reject the agreement.

Two of the International Woodworkers of America negotiators who will seek this end are Syd Thompson and Weldon Jubenville. Mr. Thompson is president of the 7,000-member Vancouver local and Mr. Jubenville is his counterpart in the 4,000-strong Duncan local.

They expect support from the 4,000-member Port Alberni local, where Walter Allen is president.

They have aimed their wrath at Jack Moore of Vancouver, regional IWA president, for what they call "lack of leadership," and at Victoria local president Murray Drew.

Mr. Drew, who made the motion to accept the two-year offer from the 114 forest companies, was accused by some of the others of threatening to pull his 1,800-member local out of negotiations if the pact wasn't signed.

The agreement was signed an hour before the 4,000 members of the loggers' local were scheduled to strike.

ALREADY OUT

The loggers had set a separate strike deadline of 4 p.m. Wednesday and about 500 had already walked off the job by the time the settlement was made known.

If the rank and file accept what they have been offered, they will get 36 cents an hour on top of a basic rate of $2.75 in two 15-cent stages during the two years of the agreement.

But the companies did not budge on the holiday demands and some of the other fringe requests of the IWA.

For those making the basic rate, the 36 cents will represent a 13.434-per-cent wage

Moscow Escalates Attack On Czech Reform Drive

General on Prague TV:

'New Situation Has Arisen'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czech newspapers demanded an explanation Wednesday for the continued presence of Soviet troops in the nation. A spokesman for the government said a "new situation" had arisen on the issue and that there would be discussions.

The newspapers asked why Soviet troops had stayed in Czechoslovakia after the conclusion of Warsaw Pact manoeuvres, which ended 11 days ago. The demands put Czech anxiety over the presence of Soviet troops into the open.

Lt. Gen. Vazlav Prchlik appeared on Czech television Wednesday night and was asked why Russian troops still were on Czech soil.

"Apparently a new situation has arisen," he said. "There will be new negotiations on the matter. For the time being I cannot give any answer to questions. Let's stick to the old proverb: The morning is wiser than the evening."

Prchlik said he would speak further on the situation today.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda says "counterrevolutionary forces" in Czechoslovakia are trying to exploit "the unstable situation" in that country to undermine communism.

It was the sharpest attack yet by an official Soviet organ on elements in Czechoslovakia that have been pushing Prague's new reform Communist leadership for faster liberalization.

The language of the Pravda article and an earlier published attack by another Moscow newspaper suggest that the Soviets believe the Czechoslovak reform drive is slipping out of control.

GRAVE TERM

The term "counterrevolutionary" is a grave one in the communist lexicon, meaning those who oppose the established rule of the party. When Russian tanks rolled into Budapest 12 years ago it was to crush a Hungarian "counter-revolution."

Pravda writer I. Alexandrov says efforts are under way "to smear and discredit the Communist party of Czechoslovakia ... to undermine the foundation of the state."

Postal Strike Set for July 18

Crowe

MONTREAL (CP) — Postal union leaders said Wednesday a nationwide strike of 24,000 workers will be held July 18.

At a mass meeting of postal employees at an east-end arena, Marcel Perreault, local president of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees, and Maurice Briere, president of Montreal of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, told their members

July 18 is the date set for a walkout unless the Council of Postal Union Workers, in charge of strike arrangements, decides otherwise.

They said this date is seven days after completion of a conciliation report by a three-man conciliation board, thus making the strike legal. The report was handed Wednesday to Jacob Finkelstein, chairman of the public service staff relations board in Ottawa.

The union leaders said they understand the report contains no pay increase. If this were so it cleared the way for a national strike.

Questioned by members about the date of the strike, Perreault said it could be changed but did not believe it would be set beyond July 20.

Britain Sending Veteran Envoy

LONDON (CP) — Sir Colin Crowe, 54-year-old career diplomat, will be Britain's next high commissioner in Canada, it was announced Wednesday.

He is expected to take over in September from Sir Henry Lintott, 59, who will retire after holding the post since October, 1963, the foreign office said.

Crowe served in China from 1956 to 1960 and in Washington from 1960-65. He also worked in Paris, Tel Aviv, Cairo and at the United Nations in New York where he was deputy British representative from 1961 to 1963. He was ambassador to Saudi Arabia from 1963-64.

He is at present one of the key men in merging the Commonwealth and foreign offices. His official title is chief of the diplomatic administration service.

Kootenay-Banff Parks

Tourists Flee Blaze

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Some 100 tourists were told to leave the Marble Canyon Camp ground 25 miles west of here late Wednesday as a 2,000-acre forest fire blazed its way towards the area.

Officials did not report any persons missing or injured, but three persons trapped by the fire in Kootenay National Park, 30 miles west of here, had to be rescued by helicopter.

The three, all from Toronto, were identified as Archibald McQuade and his two daughters, Theresa, 16, and Bernadette, 13.

They were of a family of five, holidaying in the area.

A Banff national park official said Mrs. McQuade and the couple's son Richard, 15, were found on the Banff-Windermere Highway. They had stayed behind while McQuade and his daughters explored the Stanley Glacier area when advancing flames blocked their return to the highway.

Keith Plowman, the park official, said experts did not expect the fire to overrun the Marble Canyon camp ground. The nearest settlement in the path of the fire was the 12-unit Sarnia Mountain Lodge, about 20 miles west of here. Guests staying at the lodge were told to leave. Late in the evening, the fire had approached within one mile of the lodge.

The forest fire started in British Columbia's Kootenay Park Tuesday, and crossed into Alberta Wednesday afternoon. By evening the blaze had advanced two miles into Alberta.

Some 200 men from the Alberta and B.C. forestry services were fighting to contain the fire, believed to have been started by a lightning storm. Students holidaying in the area were also evacuated.

Four water bombers were pressed into service and a 25-

Spock Has Support But Not Pollen's

JUST COINCIDENCE: Just for the record Oak Bay Social Credit candidate Peter Pollen is not a supporter of Dr. Spock and the pabulum protest movement.

He happened to be doing a door-to-door canvass along St. Patrick Street in his riding when he called at the home of Marilyn Goede, who is a Spock supporter.

Mr. Pollen said, "Dr. Spock is a sincere man, but changes should be made through the democratic process, not by civil disobedience which will ultimately destroy the democratic process. It was sheer coincidence that I happened to knock on the door of Mrs. Goede, who supports Dr. Spock."

KERRICK SHOW: The late night show scene has really been given a lift by the arrival of Dick Kerr, who is playing for one week at Big Bad John O'Hara's Old Forge.

The singer, who claims Turtle Creek, Pa., as his home, does just about everything vocally and he is also very funny.

He does two different shows a night. I stayed for both, and the crowd yelled for more and got it. Mr. Kerr builds his act around his ability to impersonate the voices of the great pop singers.

They all come alive, including Armstrong, Johnnie Ray, Ray Charles and Nat King Cole. Possibly one of his best is a stab at Dean Martin doing Little Old Wine Maker.

To give the second show a special lift Mr. Kerr produces a very funny Art Carney comedy routine.

To stem the eulogy I might add there are two fruits with this show. The first is that by some quirk of the calendar the brilliant Mr. Kerr is only here for one week, and secondly, he has a thoroughly enjoyable voice of his own, and it would be nice to hear more of Dick Kerr even at the expense of his fine imitations.

HOW ABOUT THAT: Less than a year ago the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria could rely on a steady group of old faithfuls who came to see the annual Jury Show. It was not quite this way this year.

Director Colin Graham is delighted to report 3,000 people saw the show and the amount was on youth. Mr. Graham said, "We really drew a good audience from the teenagers to the middle-aged, and this is just fine. We are trying new faces out, and it makes me really happy."

FOOD FIND: When treats are costing more and more, it's good to discover a humble dish that is a delight and costs just 35 cents.

If you can fight your way through the crowds, stand in line at the Empress Garden Cafe for a dish of the greatest rice pudding in town.

Even if you have a childhood phobia about the glutinous mass that once graced the English table, go ahead and try Chef Clarence Butler's creation. It really is good.

TRIP CLOUTED: The Vancouver Festival production of the Strauss light opera Rosalinda has five of Wynne Shaw's girls in the ballet. They are Maureen Lawton, Madeline Poulton, Valerie Smith, Nancy Watt and Sharon Kirk.

The talented quintet were looking forward to a trip to Montreal for a one-week run, but labor troubles appear to have forced cancellation of the down-east portion of the tour.

REAL FIND: Visiting Japanese art expert Professor Taro Mori and his wife, Mrs. Mori, have identified a scroll in the collection of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria as what is described in Japan as "a national art treasure."

Professor Mori says it is one of three in the world. The others are in Japan and had the government known of the scroll, it would not have been allowed to leave Japan.

It is a Fudo Myo O or fierce Buddhist god of the 16th century. It was bought for the gallery in Washington, D.C., by Mrs. Mori's father from the Victor Hugo Collection.

The scroll is an example of mokushitsu technique, where the painting is done with a frayed stick rather than a brush.

mile section of the Trans-Canada Highway west of Banff was closed for five hours because it was being used as a landing strip.

The highway was reopened by nightfall, because aircraft can only use it during daylight hours. An official said the highway would be closed again today.

RCMP said traffic would be required along Highway 1A, a narrow paved road which joins the Trans-Canada Highway near Lake Louise. An official said Banff National Park would not be closed because of the fire.

Earlier in the day, drifting smoke from the fire forced closure of the Banff-Windermere Highway leading to Radium Hot Springs, B.C.

Officials were trying for a change in weather to help firefighters. Temperatures in the area were in the high 80s Wednesday. The weather office predicted high temperatures again for today with no rain.

Banff is 60 miles west of Calgary.

14,000 Acres Ablaze

Forty-five men and one helicopter are fighting a forest fire near Fort Ware, close to the headwaters of the Finlay River in northeastern British Columbia.

A provincial forest service official says mid Wednesday the fire covers 14,000 acres in difficult terrain.

Meanwhile, the number of forest fires reported burning in the province is 170, almost double the number at this time last week "but down one from yesterday."

About 500 men and 16 helicopters are being used to fight B.C. forest fires. District reports moderate to high hazards.

Northwest Sounds Warning

SKATTLE (AP) — Range and timber fires flared anew Wednesday in sections of the Pacific Northwest and a Forest Service official predicted a hard-fought summer unless the region receives substantial rainfall.

Smokejumpers were dropped on four new fires in north Idaho's Clearwater National Forest.

Elsewhere, firefighters battled to contain a 1,000-acre-plus grass fire in southeastern Oregon and a 56-acre timber blaze near Fort Angeles.

Sea Food Allergy Not Certain

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Is a person born with allergies, or are they developed during life?

I have eaten sea food all my life. The last three times it made me violently ill and I had to go to an emergency clinic after vomiting for nine hours.

My doctor said, "That is simple: just don't eat any sea food." But I feel sure there is a logical explanation and would like to have the condition corrected.

After 15 years of doing without, I would like to join my family in a sea food dinner again — Mrs. J. H. B.

Allergy can develop at any time of life. The tendency to become allergic is, apparently, inborn and probably to a considerably degree hereditary, but it requires exposure to a substance to "sensitize" a person to it. After sensitization, small amounts can then touch off an allergic attack.

It is quite possible for a person with an allergic tendency to eat a certain food for years and finally, because of too great exposure (eating too much of that food) to become sensitized. After that, even a small serving of that food can cause trouble.

While sea foods are a common cause of allergies, they also are subject to rather easy spoiling. Some of your troubles may be related to some tainted food.

Furthermore, the sea provides a great variety of foods. If, for example, you can't tolerate lobster or crab, you may still be able to tolerate oysters, fish, or shrimp. Or, of course, it could be the other way around.

If you are truly allergic, avoiding the offending item or items is your only wise course.

I leave it to you whether to try small amounts of sea food, each one singly to see whether there are some which you can safely eat.

I would not suggest trying a complete sea food dinner, because if you had an attack, you still would not know which items may have been the offending ones.

Dear Dr. Molner: A tranquilizer was prescribed for a relative, aged 62, and the effect was bad — it made him wild and belligerent. — Mrs. E. M.

Such opposite effects occasionally occur with tranquilizers, especially among elderly people. Very likely the emotional state of the patient has an important bearing. Sometimes changing to another tranquilizer or the use of a chemically different sedative will help.

Greece Warns Against Any Pressure

ATHENS (UPI)—The military government warned Wednesday night, on the eve of its publication of a new constitution for the country, that it would not be pressured by the United States or any other NATO ally.

In a related move, the ruling junta arrested four senior army officers known for their pro-royalist policies. All were backers of King Constantine's counter-coup last December.

Observers said the warning to NATO members and the arrests of the army officers were designed to placate "young Turks" on the ruling revolutionary committee who oppose any liberalization of the government.

'NO DEVIATION'

"We will not accept anyone's advice or pressure to deviate from our own aims," Deputy Premier Stylianos Pattakos said in a statement issued about 12 hours before the new constitution was to be announced.

Army officers seized power in Greece 15 months ago to save the nation from what they described as a "Communist takeover."

The "young Turks" involved in Wednesday's moves were said to have objected to adoption of any democratic constitution and to oppose even more vigorously implementation of its terms.

PRESS REPORTS

Pattakos' warning was said to have been at least partially prompted by press reports abroad which told of pressures from the U.S. government pushing the junta toward a more democratic course.

There were no details on the contents of the new constitution to be announced Thursday.

The men arrested Wednesday included two former army generals and a colonel, and all were charged with unspecified "illegal activities."

AGAINST PLEDGE

Plainclothes security agents at dawn took into custody Lt. Gen. Constantinos Perinis, Brig. Gen. Ioannis Dromas and Col. Pericles Papathanasiou.

The arrests stunned political circles because of the government's reported promise after the coup to take no legal action against officers who had supported the king. Constantine reportedly extracted the promise before fleeing to exile in Rome.

No Speed-Up

Russians Hedge Arab Aid

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union promised Wednesday to continue "all around political and economic support" to Egypt but gave no sign it had given in to U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser's request for more and faster arms shipments.

A joint communique issued after Nasser left for Pogradica for talks with President Tito pointedly avoided repeating Nasser's claim here that the Soviet had sworn to help the Arabs "liberate" their lands from the Israelis. Nasser made the statement at a lunch last weekend.

Instead, it proclaimed fealty to the UN Security Council resolution, which called for Israeli troop withdrawal from occupied Arab territories coupled with Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist.

MILDER WORDING

Observers noted that recent Soviet communique have pledged armed aid to North Vietnam to help her "drive out the American aggressors." They said the wording of the promise to Egypt was significantly milder.

"The Soviet Union has rendered and will render the United Arab Republic all-around political and economic support and aid, as well as assistance in the strengthening of its defense potential," the communique said.

Nasser spent six days in Moscow — four days longer than scheduled. He was reported to have sought an increase in the pace of Soviet arms shipments, although the Kremlin already has replaced an estimated 90 per cent of the Egyptian arsenal destroyed in last summer's war with Israel.

JOINT STEPS

The communique said Nasser and the Kremlin had "agreed on further joint steps with the aim of restoring peace and security in the Middle East."

It did not describe these planned steps. The Kremlin had been reported to have suggested Nasser adopt a more moderate approach to Israel, including possible recognition and guarantees of its security, as the best approach to a peaceful settlement.

Diplomatic observers said the Soviets, moreover, were far from anxious to increase arms shipments to Egypt. Aid to Nasser already has placed a heavy burden on the Soviet economy.

The communique said Nasser's talks with Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorniy were held "in a friendly and heartfelt atmosphere, and in a spirit of mutual understanding."

Chinese Broadcast

Halt Violence, Guards Asked

HONG KONG (AP)—China's young Red Guards have been ordered to halt their violence because they have brought on civil war and are disrupting Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution, or power struggle, a Chinese broadcast said Wednesday.

Honan province's official radio broadcast the order in the Chinese language. It was intended only for China but was picked up in Hong Kong.

Honan radio has strongly supported party Chairman Mao in his power struggle with supporters of President Liu Shao-Chi. Analysis here presumed the order had the blessings of Mao.

Veteran Diplomat Follows Pompidou

PARIS (CP)—President de Gaulle Wednesday appointed veteran diplomat-politician Maurice Couve de Murville as his new premier to head a government expected to give a new deal to French workers.

Couve de Murville, 61, replaces Georges Pompidou, who handed his resignation to de Gaulle Wednesday.

The president told Pompidou to be ready to "take on any mandate which could be given you one day by the nation."

SIGNIFICANCE

The Associated Press quoted sources close to the Elysee Palace, de Gaulle's official residence, as saying they could read significance into the national mandate phrase. They said this certainly referred to the possibility that Pompidou might one day succeed de Gaulle as president.

De Gaulle's presidential term expires in 1972. Couve de Murville has been a loyal follower of de Gaulle during a 10-year period as foreign minister and then finance minister.

LONG TERM

Pompidou had been France's government leader for six years, two months and 26 days, longer than any other man in modern times.

Private sources said Pompidou was hurt—but not bitter—about the way de Gaulle had handled the situation. But he was smiling when he came out of the 13-minute meeting at which he presented the resignation of his whole government.

Later, Pompidou attended a meeting of Gaullist deputies at the National Assembly. In an effort to quell a current of discontent among the deputies, Pompidou said:

"It is not up to the assembly to contest the choice of the president of the republic. If you act otherwise, it would be prejudicial to the republic, to its president, to its government—and to myself."

REPORTS CONFLICT

Conflicting reports circulated about the reason for Pompidou's replacement. Some said Pompidou was less than enthusiastic about de Gaulle's plan for greater worker participation in industrial management, a 40 per cent share. Others said that de Gaulle sensed a sharp rise in Pompidou's popularity as a result of his firm handling of the strike situation in May and June and in engineering the Gaullist victory in the legislative elections. De Gaulle has always wanted to stand alone above all others.

And there were also unconfirmed reports that Pompidou had suggested late in May, when the strike situation looked rather good chips,

actually!

Piccadilly Potato Chips are new from Nalley's. They have an exciting taste all of their own. An Old English taste of salt and vinegar. Tangy. Crisp.

Try them. You'll find this new taste of London perfect for parties. Snacking. Or just when you want something refreshingly different.

Piccadilly Potato Chips. Another smashing good product from Nalley's.

Power Needs Admitted

ALTHOUGH it was possibly conceived as a bond selling promotion, Dr. Gordon Shrum's statement on Monday in Vancouver that plans were being examined for the building of new electrical generating plants on Vancouver Island is interesting.

The remarks were made at the Bennett Breakfast at which the Premier unveiled his plans for refinancing $50,000,000 parity development bonds of B.C. Hydro.

If indeed B.C. Hydro does return to the Island for new power, it will mark a change in policy which has existed since it went into its big "two river" development a few years ago. Since then, Island generating installation work has been negligible, and most of the power now used on the southern end of Vancouver Island is cabled across the Strait of Georgia from the mainland.

It was stated at the time that although the underwater cable system was difficult and expensive, it brought low cost electricity to the Island not possible through development of comparatively small hydro projects—such as the Nimpkish.

Unfortunately there have been delays in securing effective additional underground cable, and last year a general Island brown-out was averted only by the co-operation of large users in easing their loads during peak periods.

The possibility of this situation being repeated this winter remains unproved, but Dr. Shrum indicated that already the demand for electricity on the mainland was so heavy that it was doubtful if the present developments on the Peace River would be sufficient to meet the needs of the southwestern corner of the province.

So the long-hoped-for restoration, renovation and expansion of the old hydro plant at Jordan River, by creation of new dams and modernized generation may happen. The Nimpkish although not a large potential, is another area on which a great deal of planning work has already been done.

Not to be overlooked either as a new source of electricity for Vancouver Island is the thermal station using nuclear power, a form of generation coming fast into its own as an economic proposition even against hydro generation opposition.

The point of most importance, however, is that B.C. Hydro is again showing interest in Vancouver Island, and that it recognizes belatedly the danger of putting all the electrical eggs in the one undersea cable basket. Engineers have pooh-poohed the idea that failure on all circuits could happen, but nature has a harsh way of dealing with such prognostications.

A Muddled Project

THE STORY of the navy's hydrofoil vessel is a sad one. It's history is one of misadventure, and marked for kiting costs. It is named the Bras d'Or which is singularly appropriate, for the experiment has already gobbled up more than $50,000,000. That works out at something over $250,000 a ton for the little vessel which may never go into service and makes it the costliest warship, foot for foot, the public has been required to purchase.

There is ample evidence that a ship of this design is quite unsuited for the role of submarine hunting for which it is intended.

There is a strong likelihood that even if it proved to be reasonably effective, the cost would be prohibitive for production.

In fact, the feeling is gaining strength, with good reason, that the whole program has been a costly blunder.

It was originally estimated that the prototype would cost $9,000,000, without armament. That was back in 1963. Just a year later the estimate for hull alone had jumped to $16,300,000. By March of 1967 the figure was $39,874,000, plus $10,132,000 for weapons, cost of which had risen from $4,355,000 in 1964. That makes an astronomical $50,060,000 in total cost estimated in 1967, and the end is not yet.

The 1966-67 report of the auditor-general of Canada on this subject makes interesting if distressing reading.

"Since 1966 the estimates have included a provision of $2,000,000 for post-launch modifications. The cost of fighting equipment which is shown to have increased $2.2 million (28 per cent) during the year now includes $1.5 million for items previously considered to be part of the hydrofoil itself. The overall increase of $6 million in the past year from $43.9 million to $50 million and a further one-year delay in the completion of the project are largely attributable to a fire aboard the ship on November 5, 1966. The board which investigated concluded that the fire had resulted from the failure of a hydraulic line near a gas turbine engine."

The report goes on to list the explanations for the staggering underestimating, which include "inexperience of the contractor" and errors in sub-contract estimates by both civilian and naval experts.

Now Ottawa announces that the Bras d'Or is about to proceed on preliminary sea trials. But first of all she must be shipped by barge from Sorel, Quebec, to Halifax because, of all extraordinary things, the water is not deep enough to allow her passage. It sounds incredible, for the St. Lawrence channel is adequate for the deepest draught ships.

There is another intriguing aspect of the story, which comes from the Canadian Press. "After the vessel's preliminary sea trials, its transmission system will be installed in preparation for the high speed trials in the fall."

What, the reader may wonder, will be propelling the ship in her preliminary trials? Is she perhaps being towed or rowed? Her size, at 150 feet, would not rule out the latter.

Poor Reward

IT MUST HAVE COME as a shock to most Frenchmen that President Charles de Gaulle should decide to replace the premier of the country, Mr. Georges Pompidou, ten days after he had led his Gaullist deputies to a resounding victory.

No doubt his successor, Count Maurice Couve de Murville is an admirable and capable man.

But it might have been thought that Mr. Pompidou, about the only man in government who kept his head during the May-June crisis, deserved better than relegation to the back benches. It is a poor reward for loyalty and courage.

Waiting for the End of the Honeymoon

By RICHARD JACKSON, Columnist Ottawa Bureau

OF Conservative Leader Stanfield you have to say much more than the currently put and popular "he loses well." This faint-praise, "good loser" brush-off is suspect as the wishful thinking of the instant beneficiaries of "Pierre Power."

Having seen Robert Stanfield lose well in the election, they now hope to see him losing even better in the confidence of Conservatives, and then "settling last" best of all as Opposition leader.

And that, except for one or two exceptions, has been the way it was with Conservative leaders who tried and lost before him.

It could be the way it is for Robert Stanfield... except.

...except that to assume, expect, or even hope it is to be no is to ignore the realities of Robert Stanfield's kind of man: Even now after this defeat, humiliating as it must have been, after all the morning-after second-guessing, and after, most of all, the denigrating of the discomfited, one thing about Robert Stanfield comes through strong and hard.

Bob Stanfield intends to be prime minister of Canada.

He didn't make it this time. Didn't even come close. In fact, missed by 69 seats. But there have been other Conservative leaders who have missed by more, far more.

And he may not make it when four years brings around the next election — assuming all runs according to parliamentary plan and program — in 1972.

It could take two elections and eight years.

Or longer.

As long, or longer than it took him to bring the Conservatives in Nova Scotia from nowhere in 1948 — just 20 years ago — to their present position of great power.

Robert Stanfield at 54, all quiet, purposeful energy dedicated to the ultimate prime ministerial triumph, makes it sound, and credibly, as something almost inevitable.

But then, how real is the real Robert Stanfield, how realistic?

Well, in this last losing campaign, while he publicly might have talked victory — all leaders must display supreme confidence — he privately spoke of something quite different.

Sure, he hoped — and all it was actually, was a hope, faint, as things turned out — for a late victory in a minority win.

But his cold conservative (spell it with a small "c" for careful) expectation was for less than even minority victory.

It was a cool assessment of the best prospect running between 90 and 100 seats.

That would have taken him back to Parliament with about the same MP-power he took into the election.

But even this cautious calculation was made in the nervous knowledge that things could turn out much worse — that he could come back with far fewer than the 97 who returned from the '65 election.

He had been around politics too long not to know that the party campaign apparatus wasn't operating smoothly, that some amateurs were in charge of his personal election tour, that Conservative national headquarters was captive of the Montmorency "thinkers."

What he had to do, and what the party's professional "doers" — as opposed to its decidedly unprofessional "thinkers" — saw as the overriding priority was just this:

The export from Nova Scotia to other parts of Canada those qualities of integrity and responsibility — especially in economic leadership — that were such best political sellers for so long in the Atlantic provinces.

Prime Minister Trudeau, they were confident, simply couldn't go on forever talking Mount, taking half-gallons off postside diving boards and holding shopping mall kiss-ins.

When the honeymoon was over — and it could be sooner than a lot of people think — it would be a comfort for Canadians to have Bob Stanfield around with his agility as a contemporary politician, his strong intellect, his subtle sense of humor, his cool control and his quiet know-how.

All that, and his implacable determination to become prime minister sooner or later, gives it the sure feeling of inevitability.

Municipal Lotteries

From The Edmonton Journal

IF Prime Minister Trudeau's proposal to take lotteries out of the Criminal Code and give the provinces jurisdiction over them, is approved by Parliament, Canada may become knee-deep in municipal sweepstakes.

Montreal has one, which it calls a voluntary tax plan; other cities are talking about variations; and now Alderman Morris Weinkes has suggested some kind of lottery to build a sports-trade-convention centre in Edmonton.

The danger in all this is threefold: the law of diminishing returns is bound to take effect; a sensible attitude toward lotteries will be neglected; an overdue redistribution of public responsibilities and revenues between the three levels of government will be further delayed.

A news report says it is unlikely the Alberta government would permit Alberta municipalities to operate lotteries, regardless of what Parliament does, because it is utterly opposed to them. It is difficult to see how lotteries differ, morally or in any other sense, from pari-mutuel betting on the races. The Alberta government has no objection to a rule-off from betting.

But lotteries should no more be considered an important source of public revenue than pari-mutuel betting is. Rather, they should be a service of the state to satisfy a public demand. They should return no more than a modest profit above the costs of administration.

If lotteries are made legal, they should certainly not be permitted to fall into private hands: the temptations for corruption would be too great. The only alternative is state lotteries which are operated by nearly 30 nations in the world.

But Canadian authorities, federal, provincial and municipal, ought to be clear on what lotteries should be and should not be.

Agricultural Revolution in Indian Subcontinent

New Varieties of Wheat and Rice May End Hunger in Famine Region

By REYAN SILCOCK
Of the London Sunday Times

The world's most notorious famine region, the Indian subcontinent, ought never to go hungry again. Granaries are bulging with an all-time record harvest, and there is every prospect of another dramatic increase in food production next year.

By 1970 Pakistan should be producing twice as much grain as in 1965 and be self-sufficient for food. India is only a year or two behind.

New varieties of rice and wheat, tailor-made for the tropics, are the spearhead of this new agricultural revolution. Palmspraying bred from existing varieties collected from all over the world, they are enabling farmers to double and treble the amount of grain they can harvest from a single piece of land.

The results are so astonishing that they are even overcoming the legendary scepticism and dogged adherence to traditional ways of the Asian peasant.

When one new variety of rice, called IR-8, was tried out in the Philippines, 1,200 farmers on average tripled their output in a single year.

When some 11,000 acres in West Pakistan were sown with 350 tons of imported wheat seed of the new varieties

Benjano 62 and Lerma Rojo 64A, yields worked out at five times the national average.

Much of the credit for this transformation belongs to the Rockefeller Foundation. In the early 1940s it recognized the potential of plant breeding and started a wheat development program in collaboration with the Mexican government. In 20 years wheat yields per acre in Mexico increased by 250 per cent.

The outstanding characteristic of these new wheats was their small size, due to "dwarf" genes that came from varieties originating in Japan. Most tropical wheats respond to fertilization by growing so long that they fall over. These new varieties with their short, stiff straw did not; they responded by producing more and more grain.

While the plant breeders were developing the new varieties, other scientists were working out the farming methods needed to make the best use of them.

The complete package is now being enthusiastically taken up in other countries. But not easily.

"Agricultural revolutions may happen in Mexico; they do not happen in Asia. You don't know Pakistan," Rockefeller Foundation experts were told when they went to Pakistan to advise the government on wheat development.

Results beat fatalism. Farmers indifferent to improvements of only 10 or 20 per cent kept at the chance of doubling and tripling yields. Pakistan imported 350 tons of dwarf wheat seed in 1965. No less than 4,000,000 acres were sown with Mexican varieties during the 1967-68 growing season.

India started in an even bigger way, importing 18,000 tons of Mexican seed in 1966. Virtually the whole of the irrigated area under wheat, about a third of the total, was sown with dwarf varieties in the autumn of last year. A record crop has just been harvested.

Wheat was the longer haul. As recently as the early 60's the Rockefeller Foundation scientists turned their attention to rice. Linking up with the Ford Foundation to establish the International Rice Research Institute (IRRI) at Los Baños in the Philippines in 1962.

Rice is the world's most important food crop, the main item in the diet of six out of every 10 people. Ninety per cent of the world's rice is grown and eaten in Asia. Yet there is an enormous variation in yields: Generally they average around half a ton an acre, but in Japan (as in Italy and Australia) they are four to five times greater.

The more productive Japanese rice species, however, could not for a variety of reasons be grown in the tropics. So IRRI set out to produce a rice with the productivity of Japanese strains which could be used in tropical climates.

IRRI's first big success came quickly. In July and August 1966, 30 tons of seed of a variety called IR-8 were distributed to private and government farms in the Philippines. On average, yields per acre tripled. Today, less than two years later, IR-8 is being grown on millions of acres in some 50 countries.

The way in which the new varieties have been successfully introduced into countries like the Philippines, India and Pakistan is in its way as big a success story as the development of the varieties themselves, and was only made possible by strong government backing.

All sorts of methods have been used: rice "kits" consisting of the seed, fertilizer, insecticides and everything else needed to grow varieties; demonstration; and prizes.

In India there is a program of which the target is to have, by 1970-71, over 30,000,000 acres of land with adequate irrigation facilities or assured rainfall under new varieties of wheat, rice and other crops. After achieving about 5,000,000 in 1966-67 they are already almost halfway there. This program alone should provide 25,000,000 extra tons of grain.

None of this will of itself solve the developing countries food problems for all time. The population explosion still has to be contained. But it does give a priceless decade or two of breathing space.

Why the Tories Lost

Last of Two Articles

I have already dealt with why the Liberals won the job of governing Canada for the next four years. Today's offering will attempt to explain why the Conservatives blew it with all the aplomb of the Calgary Stampede, another great losing organization of this decade.

In retrospect, and this is the classy way to say hindsight is better than foresight, the Conservatives showed an amazing ability for misdirection last September when, disregarding all rules of the new politics, they elected Robert Lorne Stanfield as their standard-bearer.

The rule of new politics is youth, vitality, image, sex appeal. Robert Lorne Stanfield qualified in all but four categories. The party hierarchy chose to ignore these minor shortcomings and promptly started a public relations campaign to make him a sort of latter-day Abe Lincoln.

In this regard, Stanfield didn't come off too badly, although he did flunk elementary education, having about as much presence on the speaker's platform as Mrs. Miller at a recording session.

Why, then, Stanfield? How did this good, grey man of good, grey Nova Scotia win the support of Tories from coast to coast? He won because: the Conservative party was a divided camp (no pun intended) and because the Dalton Camp-Duffie Fulton faction was stronger than the John Diefenbaker faction.

One long-time Conservative party worker put it rather succinctly by saying Fulton-Stanfield ran as an entry and that when Fulton, surely as dull a politician as Stanfield, saw his road blocked, quickly threw in with the Nova Scotian, throwing any chance the Dief bloc might have had in electing one of their own.

Anyway, having won the convention battle, the Camp followers refused to be gracious in victory and discarded John Diefenbaker into the nearest trash can and this tactic cost them dearly on the hustings.

John Diefenbaker, for instance, was not asked by the party bigwigs for electioneering support of any candidates. There is little doubt certain Tories were defeated without this help.

Russ Simpson, who resigned last October, had been the president of the Esquimaux-Sasich Conservative riding association for four years. To say Simpson is disenchanted with the present Conservative party would be putting it mildly.

GORDIE HUNTER
Reports

"It may have been altruistic on my part, but I thought this was one party where decisions came from the average guy," he stated. "However, the B.C. party became remote from central headquarters and more and more it became evident the Vancouver group was a group of Fulton adherents. It seems more than one province followed the same pattern — Fulton, guided by Camp."

Simpson candidly admits he was a Diefenbaker man, but denies he would not have worked for the party if Diefenbaker had been replaced in a proper manner.

"The convention was handled very badly. It was a railroad job with a bunch of young kids on hand, not a brain in their heads and screaming on cue for Stanfield. To show you how shallow it can be, one Victoria egghead, a leader in the dump Dief movement, went for Fulton, then for Stanfield and finally wound up supporting Trudeau."

Simpson leaves no doubt that he feels Duff Roblin could have gained the nomination had he not procrastinated.

"Dief would have stepped down for Roblin if Roblin would only have made up his mind, but he kept waffling."

On the local scene, Simpson said he felt George Chatterton actually helped elect David Gross.

"George handled so many complaints while in Ottawa — some complaints from Liberals who had failed to get answers from Gross — that the voters just forgot who did the work."

Simpson did not want to comment on the Eric Charman fight with the newspapers, but obviously Charman cut his own political throat through his bleats against E.C. newspapers. This energy could have been better expended fighting the Liberals.

The Conservatives failed miserably in their approach to the campaign in that they tried to dazzle the voters with statistics. To paraphrase the Scottish poet Andrew Lang, the Conservatives used statistics much the same as a drunk uses a lamp post — more for stability than for enlightenment.

They hammered away with dull statistics while the public was lapping up the flamboyant Trudeau campaign.

Throw in the abortive Tory campaign in Quebec — the Marcel Farabee disaster — a situation that Stanfield was never able to extricate himself from or explain away with any degree of credibility.

Dalton Camp, probably the chief author of the calamity as a whole, will retire at the end of the year, which shouldn't cause any great heart-tugging in Conservative breasts.

Robert Stanfield is no quitter and is likely to stay on as leader. Yet, unless the Trudeau regime falls flat on its face, there would appear to be no way Stanfield could better his 1968 showing in a future election.

Selling a term from U.S. politics, he is a lame duck leader.

Go ahead, compare us with your favourite imports. You may find our Chablis a little more lively than its French counterpart. Perhaps our Burgundy is just a bit more mellow. But then, we're not really trying to make clever forgeries of famous imports; we're striving to create distinctive wines, unique to our sunny Okanagan vineyards. And we're succeeding. So much so, that, who knows? Some day, somewhere in France, someone may open a bottle labeled: Imported. All the way from the sunny Okanagan.

'Background' on Trudeau

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusations about Prime Minister Trudeau's past, similar to those denounced by all political parties during the Canadian election campaign, have been entered into the congressional record. Representative John R. Rarick, a right-wing southern Democrat, said in introducing this "interesting background documentation" that the Trudeau victory led many Americans to "ponder what can be expected from the new leadership of our neighbor to the north."

Private Shipping Company

Seaway Mediation Offered

MONTREAL (CP) — A private shipping company has offered to act as mediator to help start talks between the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and representatives of the 1,250 seaway workers who have been on strike since June 21.

Alex C. Pathy, vice-president of Federal Commerce and Navigation Company Ltd., of Montreal, which has 24 deep-sea-going ships tied up in the system, told a news conference in Montreal Wednesday that both sides of the dispute are "sitting in their offices waiting for the other to give them a telephone call."

The company has sent a telegram to the prime minister, the ministers of labor and transport and the president of the seaway authority asking the government to clarify its position with regard to the authority's bargaining position and warning of "disastrous" effects to Canada's economy if the strike is not settled.

"We take the prime minister's statement that the government still believes that it should not intervene in the strike as an answer to our telegram," said Pathy.

"We interpret it to mean the seaway authority is not bound to the government's rigidity and is free to negotiate."

Prairie Premiers Ask Grain Action

EDMONTON (CP) — The premiers of the three Prairie provinces sent a telegram to Ottawa Wednesday asking the federal government "take immediately whatever steps are necessary" to prevent any tie-up of grain shipments by labor strike.

Premiers Weir of Manitoba, Thatcher of Saskatchewan and Manning of Alberta discussed the effects of such strikes at a meeting of the Prairie economic council here.

Their telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau said the Prairie economic council "views with alarm the disruption of shipping caused by labor disputes."

Moscow Escalates

tions of the Socialist state in order to turn Czechoslovakia... to the road of restoring capitalism."

He says the Soviets are confident that Czechoslovak workers "will be able to administer a resolute rebuff to the reactionary, anti-Soviet forces."

The newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta—Literary Gazette—says a "dividing line begins to be clearly drawn in Czechoslovakia between the sober forces advocating socialism and friendship with the Soviet Union and the anti-Soviet forces, counter-revolutionary ones in fact."

It points in particular at the 70 scientists, artists and athletes who signed a manifesto in Prague June 27, warning that Czechoslovakia was slipping from its liberal course and demanding that Soviet-backed conservatives, still in power, be ousted.

Referring to these conservatives, the manifesto called for "public criticism, demonstrations, resolutions, strikes and boycotts to bring down people who have misused power and caused public harm."

Despite repudiation of the manifesto by Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak party leader, Moscow led four other orthodox East bloc nations in sending letters last weekend to the Prague regime expressing concern for the future of communism in the country and asking for a summit meeting. The Prague leadership was reported resisting the demands.

Literaturnaya Gazeta, which has led the Soviet press in attacking the Czechoslovak reform movement, says the goal of the manifesto was to "knock together an opposition to the Communist party, to obstruct sober forces in the country and to bring a power anti-socialist forces." The manifesto was called "an anti-communist program, a counter-revolutionary one."

SHOULD BE WITHDRAWN

The continued presence of the troops on Czechoslovak soil was disclosed in Prague Tuesday by the defence minister. He said they "should be withdrawn without delay."

Although no official total was given, foreign sources estimated about 8,000 Warsaw pact troops were in Czechoslovakia for 10 days of manoeuvres which ended June 30. The Polish and Hungarian contingents are known to have left, which would leave some 3,000 to 5,000 Russians.

'New Situation'

Madia Fronta, a Prague newspaper, said "the citizens of this country have the right to be informed truthfully" about the presence of Soviet and other communist troops. Earlier the ministry of defence had said the foreign troops would leave three days after the conclusion of the manoeuvres.

It never has been disclosed officially how many Soviet, East German and Polish troops arrived for the manoeuvres.

"If everything is all right, what prevents our officials from publishing a precise report?" the newspaper asked. "Unclear and contradictory information only increases uncertainty and plays into the hands of those who disseminate alarming reports."

MAY BE DANGEROUS

The newspaper Prague warned: "A misinterpretation of the realities in Czechoslovakia may lead to a dangerous situation."

"If some general or marshal is mad enough to see any analogy between the present situation in Czechoslovakia with that in Hungary in 1956, then not a single voice in our defence would be heard by our allies," Prace said.

Finance Study

In rare cases, were adversaries in terms of the theories they put forward and the commission had to act largely as a mediator.

Sanctuary Mayor Hugh Curtis, a member of the UBCM executive, said agreement reached at the meeting "is a major victory for the municipalities and the taxpayers they represent."

Mayor Curtis said it was "obvious Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell and his senior department officers are willing to offer their full co-operation in this joint study."

FORCEFUL REJECTIONS

Mayor Curtis said just such a forceful rejection had been sought by the municipalities for many years. "Frequently with forceful rejections of the idea by the provincial cabinet."

What is hoped this joint study will produce in B.C. is some accurate, original financial data through research.

"It will be an objective study," said Mr. Campbell. "What we're attempting to achieve here is agreement that the 'facts' are really factual. It's often stated that local property owners are too heavily taxed. We want to find out whether this is a fact."

QUALITY TO TAXES

"We also want to determine if quality of service at the local government level can be related statistically to input of taxes."

Responsibility for placing the direction in which the study will proceed lies with the 14-member UBCM executive and the minister of municipal affairs.

The technical side of the study will be handled by three senior officials of the department — deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown, assistant deputy James Baird, and Ken Smith, director of finances and statistics — with UBCM executive director Theo Adams and the Toronto firm of management consultants, T. J. Plunkett Associates.

SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW?

The Premier's Oak Bay speech last Thursday varied little if at all from those of 1952 and 1953, with the possible exception that he praised B.C. roads but not Mr. Gagliardi, his Minister without Portfolio.

LIBERALS LETHAL OPPONENTS

The Bennett Buggy of 1952 is the same tired vehicle despite the frantic efforts of the friendly Ford dealer. The old buggy that a Liberal vote is an NDP vote was trotted out again to frighten the electorate. The fact is he knows the NDP and C.C.F. through years of trying have never been accepted by more than a small portion of the electorate. He knows the only logical alternative to him and his government are the Liberals. Our party is his only lethal opponent.

IMPORTANT SEAT

This is why the Oak Bay-Saanich seat is so important to Mr. Bennett. He knows it is the Liberal Party that seriously challenges him for power at the next General Election. A Liberal win on July 15th will have no effect on his majority or his ability to govern. A vigorous free enterprise party ready to take over from a worn out and tired Social Credit government is his real concern. The Premier is trying desperately to put out the fire of change sparked by Mr. Trudeau. He is sensitive to the fact that our youth no longer accepts his concept of Canada... a concept so out of touch with the times that he fails to even attend Provincial-Federal conferences.

VOTE ON JULY 15

I solicit your vote on July 15th because I believe it is in the interests of British Columbians to keep the only free enterprise alternative to Social Credit represented in the Legislature.

Cool Day, Rain Reduce Stench Flying Objects Not Unknown

CENTREVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Cooler temperatures and rain early in the day gave residents of this northeastern New Brunswick community at least some relief Wednesday from stench in the polluted Presquille River which irritated them to the point Tuesday where they dammed the stream in protest.

Their spokesman, Robert Calson, said the problem was further alleviated when the dam was breached by a bulldozer. Many of the dead fish which had accumulated along the riverbanks were washed downstream, he said.

"It did a pretty fair job of flushing the stream out. But although things are a lot better today, there is still room for improvement."

The source of the pollution, two industrial plants 20 miles upstream at Easton, Me., "have stopped dumping their sewage into the Presquille ... but it still can't support life," Mr. Calson said.

Villagers dammed the Presquille near the United States-Canadian border, about four miles upstream from where it flows through part of Centreville. The river has its headquarters in Maine and flows into the Saint John in New Brunswick.

OTTAWA (CP) — Those recent unidentified flying objects in Canadian skies are British balloons, defence department officials said Wednesday.

The Quebec City station of the Defence Research Board was scheduled to release at 11 p.m. Wednesday a balloon 140 feet in diameter, carrying 600 pounds of upper atmosphere research equipment.

The balloon is supposed to ascend to 55,000 feet and descend on radio command this morning.

About a dozen more such balloons will be released from the Quebec City station this year.

North American Air Defence Command at North Bay has received reports of UFO sightings in northern Ontario.

Officials said these UFOs are high-altitude balloons released by British scientists in England.

Church Move Breakthrough

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — With Vatican approval, the assembly of the World Council of Churches nominated nine Roman Catholics Wednesday night to the faith and order commission. While the Roman Catholic Church does not belong to the council, membership on the commission is open to non-member churches.

The commission is the most important council body for continuing study of theology with the aim of eliminating obstacles to closer church unity. Council officials hailed the decision as a breakthrough in the expansion of collaboration with Roman Catholics.

Roman Catholic observers-delegates were present and allowed to speak but not to vote for the first time at this assembly.

The presence of Roman Catholics on the faith and order commission will give the Roman Catholic Church both a voice and a vote on some of the council's most important policy decisions.

Prairies Pavilion Too Costly

EDMONTON (CP) — The premiers of the Prairie provinces decided Wednesday they would not be able to afford a joint Prairie pavilion at Japan's Expo '70 World Fair.

Premier Thatcher of Saskatchewan said the decision was reached at the meeting of the Prairie economic council here.

Thatcher said Saskatchewan had proposed the prairie pavilion because Japan is a good customer of Western Canada.

He said he found the Alberta and Manitoba governments "a little nervous" about the cost of such an undertaking, and after being shown cost projections, he himself became equally nervous.

Christian Burial Refused

QUEBEC (CP) — Yvon Germain, 37, was interred here Wednesday without benefit of a Christian burial after the Quebec City Archdiocese ruled that the circumstances of his death were such that he could not have a Roman Catholic funeral.

Germain was shot to death last Friday during an attempted holdup by four masked men of a Lower Town bank branch in Quebec City.

Police identified Germain as one of the four bandits, two of whom were wounded in the shooting affray.

Three other suspects are awaiting trial in connection with the attempted holdup.

'On to Senate'

Gun Bill Shot Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A senate committee Wednesday excluded rifles and shotguns from a proposed gun registration and licensing law. But it was stymied in attempts to approve a bill and proponents promised to bypass the committee and appeal directly to the Senate.

After his registration and licensing bill had been hacked almost into oblivion, Sen. Joseph Tydings (D-MD.) said, "We must now move to the floor of the Senate."

The judiciary committee session ended abruptly after Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-SC.) refused to allow a vote on Tydings' bill even after it was almost completely rewritten, and Tydings refused to permit a vote on an administration bill to ban interstate purchases of rifles and shotguns.

WHY I'M RUNNING

PETER POLLEN

Now that the N.D.P. Provincial Executive has nominated a candidate in Oak Bay, the Liberal candidate cites this as proof that his party is in no socialist alliance. Yet it was the local Oak Bay N.D.P. Association that decided not to run a candidate. When reaching this local decision, they undoubtedly spoke for their members in Oak Bay. The local N.D.P. Chairman, Mr. Peter Bunn, was perfectly forthright, perhaps he was too honest for the professional N.D.P. and Liberal politicians. He said that the N.D.P. should support the Liberal candidate in Oak Bay. This galvanized Mr. Strachan into action and he found a brave lady to carry the N.D.P. banner in Oak Bay in an attempt to show that there was no coalition on the left. The Oak Bay residents are not fooled by all this. They know that the local N.D.P. membership are supporting the Liberals. What these two parties do have in common is their constant opposition to this free enterprise government. On 43 votes in the last legislative session the Liberals and N.D.P. voted together against the government. Bill 33 establishing the Mediation Commission was one such vote. The Liberals continue to be opposed to responsible legislation in the labour relations field. My Liberal opponent says that he generally supports the Bill but he is opposed to one detail of it. The principle in the Bill that he opposes is the fundamental basis of the whole measure, namely, that the Cabinet is permitted to refer a serious strike or lockout to the new Mediation Commission for a binding settlement. Both the N.D.P. and the Liberals are opposed to the most constructive legislative measure in Canada to maintain labour peace and build a strong economy.

Listen: Saturday, July 13, 9:05 to 10:00 p.m. — 1220 Radio — Rebroadcast of Premier Bennett's speech.

Shapely Contestant Impresses Judge

CALGARY (CP) — Impressed by the "levelness and the size and shape of the tests," Judge W. J. Knapp of Galt, Ont., has given the Calgary exhibition and Stampede's Best Udder Award to a Minnesota cow.

Sparkle Sable Belle, a Jersey owned by Dean Workman and Son, operators of the National Stock Farm at Borup, Minn., bagged the $150 first prize in the interbreed udder contest at the livestock show.

The judge also had praise for Western Glow M. B. Duches, a Guernsey cow owned by the Western Glow Farms Inc., of Bow, Wash. He said the fifth-place udder was "like a silk glove."

Knapp, who has been judging udders for three years, was disappointed that the large class of 24 cows did not allow judging before and after milking.

"Only after they've been milked can you really tell the texture—whether it's a soft or wooly udder," he said.

Dawsonville Thelma, an Ayrshire owned by Charles Dawson of Nanose Bay, B.C., had the second best udder.

Damming Claim Denied in B.C.

HUDSON'S Hope, B.C. (CP) — William Findlay, resident manager of the W. A. C. Bennett Dam near here, denied Wednesday the huge power facility was responsible for a drop in the water level of lakes in Alberta.

Stuart Smith, director of the Alberta fish and wildlife branch, said Tuesday in Whitehorse, Y.T., that the dam had changed the flow of several rivers, and reduced the levels of Lake Athabasca and Lake Claire.

Mr. Findlay said the dam has

Quebec May Quit Liquor

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — The Quebec government is thinking of going out of the business of selling liquor. Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare said Wednesday.

Bellemare said the government was studying "representations" from private groups interested in taking over the retailing operations currently under the control of the Quebec Liquor Board.

The statement was made as a strike by the province's liquor store employees wound up its second week without any sign of a break.

Bellemare predicted the strike would be "very long," and negotiators termed the positions of the union and the QLB "irreconcilable" at this stage.

The provincial labor minister said the government had made "no decision" on the possible transfer of liquor retailing to private interests, whom he did not identify.

However, he said that if the liquor selling business were given to private groups, the provincial government would retain control over the wholesale end of the business, and its distribution to sales outlets.

The QLB currently controls sale of all alcoholic beverages except beer, which is sold in grocery stores.

Bellemare said he personally thought the move "might make sense."

"The government is not a business organization. It doesn't sell," he said.

No Import To Ease Drought

TORONTO (CP) — The liquor control board will not tap new foreign-beer sources to ease Ontario's beer drought, chief commissioner C. Harry Sheppard said Wednesday.

The LCBO has received orders from some hotels and taverns wishing to buy beer from the United States breweries who have agreed to ship to Ontario, he said in a statement.

Barnes, Bonallack Lead British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — A couple of Englishmen — one an amateur — set the pace after the first round of the British open golf tournament Wednesday.

Billy Casper of the U.S. trailed by two shots.

Brian Barnes, a 23-year-old rising star, and Michael Bonallack, the British amateur champion and Walker Cup player, led the field with 70.

(Bonallack was playing captain of Britain's team in the Commonwealth golf matches at Victoria Golf Club last August and later played in the Canadian Amateur at Royal Oakwood.)

Maurice Bembridge and Peter Mills, both from England, were next with 71.

BALDING FIRES 71
At Belding of Toronto, the only Canadian entered, shot a two-over-par 71.

Tony Jacklin of England, now playing the U.S. pro circuit, Paddy Sheehy of Ireland and left-hander Bob Charles of New Zealand were bracketed with Casper at 72.

The weather changed quickly all day on Carnoustie's 7,253-yard, par 36-36-72 course. The thermometer went down rapidly as the North Sea wind arrived. By afternoon it registered in the 50s.

Lombardi Forced to Eject Veterans As Football Dispute Tension Grows

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General manager Vince Lombardi had to order quarterback Bart Starr and other veteran members of the champion Green Bay Packers out of training camp Wednesday as tension grew in the threatened strike of National Football League players.

In Dallas, it was reported that members of Dallas-Cowboys planned to set up their own training quarters at Thousand Oaks, Calif., despite an NFL owners' policy that camps would be closed to all veterans until the controversy over pension payments is settled.

In Chicago, Art Modell, president of both the Cleveland Browns and the NFL, squashed suggestions that the owners were standing by for possible further negotiations with the players.

And in New York, American League players and owners announced agreement on a new two-year contract calling for increases in player pensions and in exhibition game pay.

"There are no further negotiations contemplated at the moment," Modell said. "They have broken off. Most of the owners have left for their respective homes. I'm taking off later today."

An unconfirmed report out of New Orleans was that the players were taking another vote on the matter.

However, in Dallas, Dave Manders, the Cowboys' player representative, said John Gordy of Detroit Lions, president of the NFL Players Association, said no further talks would be taken until a better offer is made.

The association is demanding that each of the 16 NFL clubs toss in $100,000 for the players' pension fund. The owners have offered a 25-per-cent increase in pension payments this year, 50 per cent in 1969 with the proviso that additional gains established in 1970 be applied to players who end their careers in 1969 and 1969.

The owners say they cannot afford the players' demands. The players have spurned the owners' offer.

Most of the clubs were prepared to go ahead with training confined to rookies and free agents. Veterans are to be barred.

Owners have suggested that it may be necessary — if there is no agreement — that NFL competition be suspended for the 1968 season.

Manders was quoted by the Dallas Times-Herald as saying the Cowboys veterans had decided to hold their own camp pending settlement.

"There's too much at stake," Manders said. "We're going for the title."

Meanwhile, at Green Bay, Starr and a group of Packers veterans showed up for a workout but, after loosening a few muscles, they were ejected politely by Lombardi.

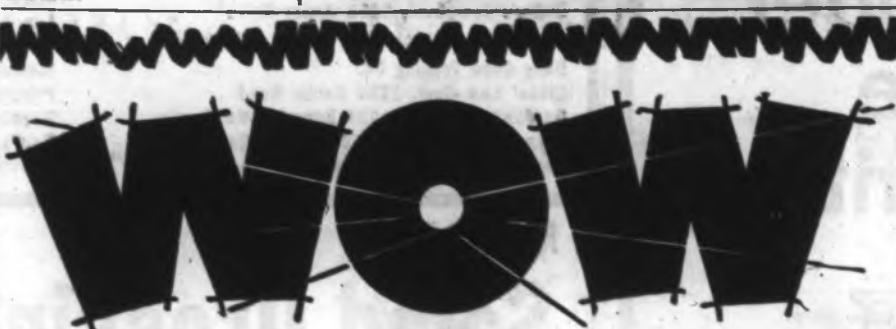

"I'm very unhappy about this," Lombardi said. "I didn't put 30 years into this business to come to this, but I always have hope."

Lombardi said owners were united in their stand and he did not know anything else that could be done.

Junior Clubs In No Hurry

The B.C. Junior Hockey League doesn't intend to comply with an ultimatum from the British Columbia body of the league's position with the independent Canadian Hockey Association.

Don Winkler, of New Westminster, the B.C. president of the CAHA, has advised the league franchisees, Victoria, New Westminster, Kamloops, Kelowna, Vernon and Penticton, that they have until July 15 to indicate whether or not they plan to stay in the CAHA or face possible expulsion from the association.

The warning came less than two weeks after the B.C. junior operators were reported to have issued an ultimatum, threatening to join the breakaway CHA unless the CAHA granted the B.C. teams a substantial boost in player development grants, now one-third the rate paid to prairie teams in the Western Canada Junior League.

Hank Bauer Fired By Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Bauer was fired Wednesday as manager of Baltimore Orioles less than two years after he directed them to the American League pennant and victory in the World Series.

The Orioles said Bauer's replacement would be named this morning. Early speculation was that it would be coach Earl Weaver.

Striking Players Ineligible in CFL

TORONTO (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, said Wednesday that players involved in the threatened National Football League strike will not be eligible to play in Canada.

"Any player legally under contract or option to play with any club in the NFL will not be eligible to play in the CFL," Gaudaur said.

"Any players, rookies or otherwise, not under contract to NFL clubs are eligible for CFL teams."

Denny Veitch, general manager of British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference, said Tuesday quite a few players who have not signed contracts with U.S. clubs.

"There are lots of college kids who didn't come to agreement with the teams that drafted them," Veitch said.

Gaudaur said he has been besieged by telephone calls from the U.S., asking him about the situation.

The statements followed one by president Art Modell of the NFL Monday. Modell said that professional football in the U.S. is facing a "long and disastrous strike."

Did you wonder
"Sidney" went ?

The MV "Queen of Sidney" is the fifth-wheel on our Vancouver-Victoria run. We call her route "The Oddball" because she has a rather eccentric schedule. It's different every day (and she rests on Tuesdays and Wednesdays). There's a reason for all this. She operates during our schedule peaks in the summer months only, adding to the car carrying capacity of the other big ships. Enroute she makes special stops in the Gulf Islands to supplement ferry service to those communities.

Regular travellers plan their trips for her on-the-odd-time departures. They're usually less crowded, and with her stops at the pleasant islands, a bit more relaxing. The few minutes longer it takes to reach your destination are just that much more rewarding.

Suggestion: When you, or visiting friends are crossing the Gulf, think of "The Oddball" ... it's more fun!

Eye on PM

A Kilt For John D

Hamilton

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker left on a sentimental journey to Scotland Wednesday night with a parting shot at Prime Minister Trudeau and a promise to buy himself a kilt.

"I'll look good in it," the former Conservative prime minister happily assured a little knot of friends who saw him and his wife off at the airport.

He also promised to keep a close eye on the activities of Trudeau "as he keeps his pupils lined up at attention."

Earlier the 72-year-old Chief had accused the prime minister of treating his ministers like little boys with his public warnings on cabinet secrecy.

UNVEILING

Diefenbaker is to officiate Saturday at the unveiling in Regina of a monument to Sir John A. Macdonald, his political hero and Canada's first prime minister.

On Monday he will dedicate a plaque to his own Scottish great-grandfather, George Barnerman, an early settler in western Canada.

The project to erect a monument to Macdonald originated with Hugh Macpherson, a member of the Edinburgh city council.

A memorial fund to finance it was set up by a group of Ottawa men, who invited Diefenbaker to officiate at the unveiling.

Up to Party But Stanfield in Favor

Hamilton Suggested as Tory President

By RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — While emphasizing that the choice had to be left to the party's annual meeting, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says Alvin Hamilton would make "a most excellent" president of the national PC association.

If nominated and elected at the annual meeting which could come as early as this fall and not later than next spring, Hamilton, defeated in the June election in Regina East, would replace Dalton Camp.

Himself a defeated election candidate in two campaigns, Camp, twice Conservative president, has said he would not again offer for the post.

AVAILABLE

Stanfield's observation on Alvin Hamilton's "eminent suitability" for the party presidency followed the defeated MP's public proclamation of "availability" for employment, preferably in the capacity of a professional consultant.

Hamilton's self-announced entry onto the labor market was made in all newspapers across Canada in the form of a photo of him packing it up for Parliament in his Centre Block office, coupled with the news report that his quite specialized services could be had for a fee.

Hamilton said he was now going to sit in his suburban Rideau river side home in nearby Manotick "and wait for the phone to ring."

NO MONEY — YES

It just could ring with Stanfield on the line suggesting he think about "offering" for the party presidency.

The post, at the moment, pays off only in party power and personal prestige — no money beyond, perhaps.

But Stanfield wonders whether the national association might not be able to do something about this.

KNOWS EVERYONE

What qualities in Alvin Hamilton might commend him to Stanfield for the party presidency?

Well, Alvin Hamilton is supposed "to know just about everyone in the party in all parts of the country," having worked in the Conservative organizational level as long as 20 years ago.

He has the reputation of being a great "idea man," having dreamed up, among other things, the "roads to resources" program, a long which the Diefenbaker Conservatives rode to their 1957 and '58 victories.

and then as agriculture minister brought ARDA, the rural development program into successful and continuing operation.

And finally, he still appears to enjoy the reputation on the prairies of being the greatest salesman the western wheatmen ever have had.

While Stanfield "likes" Alvin

Hamilton as party president, "best of all" he would hope to see him back in Parliament, the winner, perhaps, in some not-too-far-off byelection.

But if the Conservative annual meeting comes this fall or next spring, it's possible that Alvin Hamilton will be party president before he gets again to be an MP.

Camp May Try Again

OTTAWA (UPI) — Dalton Camp, national president of the Conservative party, may make yet another bid to gain a seat in the House of Commons, an informed party source disclosed Wednesday.

Camp, defeated in two previous bids — in 1965 and in the recent June 25 national election — was reported considering an offer to seek the seat of incumbent New Brunswick member Chester MacRae.

THE FAST FRIENDLY WAY TO SHOP

Beachcombers Collect Gentlemen's Drawers

Banana skins, two pairs of men's undergarments, beer and soft drink bottles, and vast quantities of other debris have been recovered over the years from the end of Gordon Head Road, Saanich parks and outdoor recreation committee was told Monday night. Now a municipal sign has been erected designating a public beach access down the 14-foot right-of-way, and this will compound the problems of living near the beach. H. O. Young of 4355 Gordon Head Road complained in a letter.

He said he and a neighbor had tried to keep the area clean for years, and in return had been subjected to car and motorcycle noise throughout the night, car radios left on, and midnight calls for help to get stalled cars started.

The recently erected sign had brought more traffic—25 to 100 cars daily—down the road, and was confusing tourists. The trail down to the beach, Mr. Young suggested, could be negotiated only by mountain goats or teenagers, and perhaps the sign had been placed in the wrong area.

He said there was also a fire hazard in the area.

Ald. Alan Newberry said he had many compliments from nature organizations and individuals on the marked access areas, and on council's stand.

Ald. Edward Iam said there were many accesses in Saanich of the same type. "If we take down one, we will have to take them all down," he said. The letter was received and filed.

Mayor Hugh Curtis, Ald. Newberry, municipal and SPCA officials are to meet to renegotiate the SPCA agreement to provide pound facilities for Saanich. The SPCA wants a flat $2,000 grant for provision of pound facilities, instead of the share of pound fees they receive at present.

Community organizations in the Sea Point Road area are to be asked to suggest names for the new park at the end of the road, the parks committee decided.

The fire committee decided to recommend to council the purchase of a new tanker fire truck at a cost of $29,000.

Aussie Hostage Bride 'Engaged to GI'

SYDNEY, Australia — Beryl Mellish, who spent the first week of her marriage as her husband's hostage, said she would seek an annulment or a quick divorce.

The 19-year-old bride told the Sydney Daily Telegraph she hoped to marry an American soldier "if he still wants me." She said she was engaged to the serviceman before she became the hostage of Wallace Mellish, 23. She identified the soldier only as "Terry."

Mellish, an ex-convict with a history of mental illness, married the former Beryl Mellish July 2 after threatening to shoot her and her 11-week-old son if permission was denied him. He kept police away from a suburban cottage with similar threats until Tuesday, when he surrendered. Mellish is in mental hospital.

clearance to take their 1928 Ford on fishing and blueberry-picking expeditions. Burd, who will be 86 July 26, has passed his annual driver's test without trouble.

OAXACA, Mexico — Partirio Gonzalez, a Mexican judge, has appealed an injunction that would have freed 23-year-old Francisco Lavallo of Montreal. He's being held on charges of murdering Dorothy Patterson, 30, of New York, last Good Friday on a remote Pacific Coast beach.

EDMONTON — Ski champion Nancy Greene of Rossland will officially open Klondike Days July 18.

LOS ANGELES — Approval was given in Superior Court for recording contract. Colleen Burd, 55, and his wife Edna, the teen-age daughter of the late Lanza, 19, was permitted by Judge William MacFaden to sign a a contract with Merph Records. The girl's father died in 1959.

LOS ANGELES — Christian Hayden, 19, son of actor William Hayden, pleaded not guilty to a charge of draft evasion.

HARBOUR GRACE, Nfld. — Governor-General Michener landed by helicopter here for the first viceregal visit to Harbour Grace and Carbonear since Newfoundland joined Confederation in 1949.

CHICAGO — Richard Nixon, courting Republican national convention votes in the Midwest, has offered to debate Hubert Humphrey on national television if both men win their party presidential nominations.

MONTREAL — Actress Genevieve Bajeld-Almond, whose latest role is in her husband's film Isabel, to be released here in September, gave birth to a six-pound, four-ounce boy. Dr. Jean-Maurice Noel, who delivered the baby, said both mother and child were resting and well.

Censored Version Back on Screen

TORONTO (CP)—The controversial film, High, by Vancouver director-writer Larry Kent has been approved by the Ontario film censors board after some scenes were deleted.

Cinecity, a downtown theatre, had its license suspended in January for an attempted press screening of the film.

In its original version, the film depicted the life of two Montreal hippies including their love-making and use of drugs.

Short, Sharp Words

Here's Cue for Director

By BILL THOMAS
A revival of Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion by Vancouver's Art Theatre opened Wednesday at the McPherson Playhouse and despite some handicaps it enjoyed a considerable success.

The triumphs were Shaw's, for it is his wit and capacity for exploring the human comedy that make this play, and not the actors—with a few important exceptions.

Derek Ralston as Professor

Higgins lacks the polished urbanity we have come to expect in this role, and it is Professor Higgins who sets the tone of the play.

Toni Sinclair has a better time as the flower girl, Eliza Doolittle, especially in the first half of the play. Miss Sinclair gets the most out of her part, though with her experience in this same part, it might be expected she would have slowed down her delivery to the point of complete audibility.

EXCELLENT WORK

The supporting roles of Mr. Doolittle, played by Bernard Harby, and Colonel Pickering, played by Wally McSweeney, seemed excellent.

The fundamental problem that has not been solved by director John Stark is just how he intends to handle the play. The treatment varies from naturalism to an Oscar Wilde kind of brilliancy.

Pygmalion is still good theatre, despite the suggestion by some critics that Shaw's work would not last much longer than he did.

What makes the Canadian Art Theatre production an annoyance is that it comes so close to coming off.

A little more attention to detail and some short sharp words from the director would easily put this into the don't-miss category.

The clothes and set fill the bill, though Higgins' study could stand a little more decoration. Possibly the problems of travel limit these.

Pygmalion runs to Saturday and provides an amusing diversion for a summer evening.

Assailant Wounded by Third Officer

Off-Duty Shootout Kills Policeman

NEW YORK (AP)—Nicolai Danisi, 24, wounded Tuesday night in a shootout with two other off-duty policemen on the Cross-Bronx Expressway, died Wednesday in hospital.

Homicide charges were filed against one of the other officers, Patrolman John T. Dalton, 41, who was wounded by the third officer. Dalton was in good condition in hospital.

Danisi, a probationary patrolman, was shot in the head.

THIRD UNHURT
The third policeman, Detective Frederick Gibson, 36, was unhurt.

Police said the shootout occurred when a car being driven by Dalton stalled on a section of the expressway partly blocked by construction.

Danisi, driving a car behind

Dalton's, got out and walked up to the stalled auto, police said.

They said the two men then began arguing.

SHOT IN HEAD
Gibson, who was in another nearby car, said he saw Danisi pull out his wallet and show his badge to Dalton.

Gibson then said Dalton shot

Gibson said he then took cover behind a car, drew his revolver and ordered Dalton to drop the gun. Instead, he said, Dalton fired at him and missed.

Gibson returned the fire and shot Dalton in the chest, police said. First reports said 20 persons were injured.

Aussie Train Explodes

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—An electric train was damaged by an explosion in the Sydney suburb of Rooty Hill Tuesday, police said. First reports said 20 persons were injured.

THE DAILY COLONIST

Reagan Blasts 'Hooligans'

SACRAMENTO (LAT)—Gov. Ronald Reagan Wednesday blamed "hoodlums and hooligans" for an attempt to firebomb his home in an exclusive Sacramento residential area Tuesday night. He said two Negro youths, as yet unidentified, dropped two home-made Molotov cocktails in front of the home Reagan has been leasing when they were surprised by state police and secret service agents assigned to guard the governor.

The youths dropped the bombs, which fell harmlessly on the street in front of the Reagan home and in the front yard of a house next door, when a secret service agent fired a warning shot into the air, police said.

The youths leaped into a car and fled, police said. No arrests have been made. Reagan, his wife Nancy and their two children were at home when the incident occurred. Reagan told newsmen he and Mrs. Reagan were upstairs watching television.

He said the incident was "part and parcel of the atmosphere that pervades the country—not just California. 'Frankly,' he said, 'I don't take any stock in those people who say this type of thing has anything to do with poverty or problems of poverty or pockets of unemployment. 'The people who do this are hoodlums and hooligans. They have no interest in bettering the conditions of anyone and they are stimulated by the continued hate talk that goes on in the context of politics today.'"

The Social Credit government refuses to adopt strict pollution control legislation because it wants to protect the interests of industries which support the party, Oak Bay Liberal candidate Allan Cox said Wednesday night.

The government should be displaying courage, he said. Instead, its candidate, Peter Pullen, was only discussing pollution problems in platitudes.

"You will never start on a solution to the problems of pollution of our air, land and water until this government shows the courage to pass these regulations and makes no exceptions to them," said Mr. Cox.

Desperately-Needed Improvement

Laboratory Expansion Nod Due in Days for Jubilee

By JOHN MATTERS

The provincial government in the next two or three days will give Royal Jubilee Hospital the go-ahead for a $600,000 laboratory expansion, it was learned Wednesday.

The additional laboratory space is one of the most desperately-needed improvements at the hospital, which has

Gas Caps Galore At Station

Oak Bay police have ten more caps — the kind that close cars' gasoline tanks. The trouble began June 21 when two juveniles went on a gas-cap-stealing spree and spirited away 42 of them. On the 3rd, they got caught. Now the police had two juveniles and 42 gas caps. So far, 17 caps have been returned to their owners. Oak Bay police have asked anyone who missed a tank top around June 22 to come to the station on Monterey Avenue and get it back.

Sewage Issue

Bryant Charges Politics

Colwood's representative on the regional board is playing politics with the sewage disposal issue, Mayor Ray Bryant of Esquimalt said Wednesday. He said he was disappointed to read that William Reader was accusing the mayors of Esquimalt, Saanich and Victoria of cooking up arguments against the treatment of sewage before it is dumped into the sea.

Mayor Bryant said he listened "with patience and respect" when Mr. Reader opposed the sewage consultant's reports at meetings of the regional board.

COST FACTOR

"It's one thing to be on the side of sewage treatment,"

"It's like being on the side of motherhood," said the mayor, "but the cost factor has to be considered at exactly the same time."

He said Health Minister Ralph Lofmark, who has opposed the dumping of raw sewage into the sea, also apparently had not considered who would pay for the treatment program.

Mayor Bryant claimed the minister was making a political statement.

had the proposal in various planning stages for about five years.

The approval will come from British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service, the provincial agency which will contribute about $266,000 of the total cost.

WIDESPREAD

In recent years, the laboratory has been one of the fastest-growing departments of Royal Jubilee. The need for space has forced it to take over almost every unoccupied square foot of the building, including old urology operating rooms.

The Agnew, Peckham report on Victoria's long-range hospital needs also had strong criticism of the laboratory facilities, which are spread over two buildings.

"Laboratory facilities are now inadequate and require considerable expansion and integration with the hospital complex," said the consultants, adding that the hospital should plan for a doubling of its lab space requirements every eight to 10 years.

FIFTH FLOOR

Most of the work will be on the addition of a fifth floor to the hospital's south wing. The massive plumbing and wiring requirements of the laboratory will probably require closing one of the lower floors while the installations are being made.

The announcement of government approval of Royal Jubilee's final plans for the work is expected to contain an indication of what BCHIS thinks the hospital's future role in the community will be.

Provincial Museum

Ribbon-Cutting Delay Expected

The provincial cabinet is expected to set today on a recommendation by Public Works Minister W. N. Chant in favor of delaying the scheduled July 19 opening of the new provincial museum.

The continued strike of floor-layers which has delayed the final stages of completion of the museum structure has prompted the reassessment of the opening date. Hundreds of invitations to the opening by Premier Bennett have been sent out.

Mr. Chant said in an interview Wednesday that there was "every indication" the opening would have to be delayed. He added: "I presume this could happen. We're going to have to bid our time for a little while."

However, since other departments were involved in the museum project, the minister said, and because it was an important occasion involving a major project, he wanted to discuss the move in cabinet before making a decision.

"It's inconvenient, but this is just one of the things that happen," the minister said. "I guess labor unions have their rights, and it causes some inconvenience."

Downtown Demonstration

Solitary Serviceman Actively Anti-Spock

Wednesday's demonstration in support of Dr. Benjamin Spock was objected to actively by only one lone Canadian Forces man.

He flourished a sign urging people to "back the boys in Vietnam" and that Dr. Spock was "as threatening as communism" in front of the peaceful demonstration sponsored by members of the Voice of Women.

About 40 people gathered to take part in the show of support for the famous American children's doctor who was sentenced Wednesday to a prison term and a stiff fine for urging young men to dodge the draft.

About two-thirds of the demonstrators were mothers, estimated Mrs. Marilyn Gosse, an organizer.

"We also had two tables out with a petition in support of Dr. Spock. There were two or three pages of signatures, and we will send copies to Dr. Spock, the judge involved, and the British newspaper," said Mrs. Gosse.

Church officials have also offered backing.

"We don't put on a formal fund drive," concluded Mrs. di Castri. "This hotel will be an asset to the community, and we expect to get support from individuals and organizations."

"We are hoping especially for help from churches, because this is Christian work if anything is."

"Our plans aren't set yet," she added, "but we might also be able to offer accommodation for unmarried mothers."

The efforts of the group headed by Mrs. di Castri have received the approval of city welfare administrator Alex Davidson, who said his department dealt regularly with about a dozen young girls looking for work and without a decent place to live.

"In any event, she's in the same bind — there's not that much work, and she's soon behind on her rent and out on the street."

The hotel would be for

'Ottawa Should Curb Campus Duplication'

A federal authority that would eliminate duplicating specialties in Canadian universities was advocated Wednesday night by David Anderson, the newly-elected Liberal MP in Esquimalt-Saanich.

He told a meeting of the Sidney Rotary club that existing competition was wasteful in terms of both talent and tax dollars.

"We already have enough competition between our universities and those in the United States," he said. "We do not need more competition between those in Canada."

Such a federal authority could also do more to assure equal educational opportunities in all provinces. As it now exists, the opportunities for education to a large degree depend on the wealth of the province in which the student lives.

He also suggested federal-provincial relations be looked on as a co-operative basis. Any attempt by any level of government to play games can result in the public, who pays the taxes, being caught in the squeeze."

Pollution Reduced At Home

By EILEEN LEAROLD

It is white enamel. It is operated by propane gas.

It is recommended by the Canadian Association of Consumers and also the Canadian Gas Association.

It requires no septic tank, no drain field, no water and no plumbing.

It can be permanently installed, or run on a 12-volt battery and therefore can be portable.

It is a toilet, and sold in Victoria.

To be precise it is a combustion toilet called a Destroilet. It provides instant incineration of waste and is therefore sure and sanitary and the question of lake or sea pollution just never arises.

It can be conveniently installed in a cottage, thereby eliminating the "outhouse."

In The Daily Colonist of July 7 a story was run quoting Saanich development engineer J. Barber-Starkey as saying "Water closets should be abolished."

The engineer said that instead of wasting five gallons of water every time a toilet is flushed, the electrical incineration of waste should be accomplished. He spoke of an Eastern Canadian fixture called an Incinohet.

But Mrs. Florence Mauger, 3556 Henderson Road, came into the office Wednesday with a product which she began distributing just a few days ago.

This makes her the only woman distributor of such a product in Canada.

This is how it happened: Mrs. Mauger and her husband are building a cottage at Sooke, on the shores of Kempt Lake.

Deeply concerned about the current topic of water pollution they investigated septic tanks, ordinary plumbing, and filter beds. They found that to have a septic tank one should have a very big lot; filter beds are now outlawed in most areas, and plumbing of the ordinary variety still causes water pollution. Then she heard rumors of a gas fixture.

Hearing of the propane gas fixture and getting one was another matter. She finally found one in Vancouver, because so fascinated with its possibilities that she asked for, and obtained, the dealership.

"The propane gas toilet is certainly part of the answer to water pollution," said Mrs. Mauger. "It doesn't solve the problem for slugs, bathtubs or the family laundry where water is obviously required—but it is an important partial solution."

"Another point is that many Victoria and Island basements are below the safe and efficient drainage level, and yet they would like to add another toilet. The propane gas toilet provides the extra fixture needed by a growing family, and no drain problem. There is a further point that with no pipes, there is never a freeze-up. They work as well at 10 degrees below zero."

Mrs. Mauger pointed out that in some of the Gulf Islands, costs of installing septic tanks run as high as $1,500. The propane toilet costs $450.

How do they work? An automatic (when the lid is lifted) spark ignites the gas. The spark is ignited by the normal home electricity.

However, the portable unit runs from 12-volt batteries. Mrs. Mauger says these are used on construction work, in boats and in trailers. The main point is that they provide indoor facilities.

Mrs. Mauger and her husband are in full accord with Mr. Barber-Starkey who said the question was "not whether we should dispose of sewage on land or at sea, but one of re-examining the whole issue."

Visiting London

A number of Victorians and up-Island residents visited in London, England, during the past week. Among those signing the book at British Columbia House were Miss Ella H. Creighton, Mrs. Jessie Martindale, Mrs. M. G. Hope, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Thomas-Peter, Mrs. Margaret Pollard with David and Della, Mrs. Jean P. Milner, Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Scarle, Mr. W. F. Goring, Miss Betty Gook, Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Barr, Mr. D. R. Corll, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Larmon, Cmr. H. W. S. Soudry, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Donald McCormick, all of Victoria.

Also signing the book were Mr. John Ramsey, Duncan; Mrs. Anne Morley, Miss Dace Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Dunstan, all of Nanaimo; Mrs. Elizabeth Schroyer, Lake Cowichan.

New Venture

Building a summer cottage at Sooke and being concerned about current issue of water pollution and sewage disposal, caused Mrs. A. R. Mauger, pictured here with daughter Diane, to enter new line of business.—(Robin Clarke)

Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Timnick were honored at a buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fife on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

In charge of the supper for 40 guests were the couple's daughters, Mrs. Archie (Emma) Elliot of Regina, and Mrs. R. A. (Ruth) Fatt, Victoria. Junior hostesses were the Misses Linda Fife, Ruth Ann Elliot and Andrea Fatt.

Mr. Fatt was master of ceremonies and Mr. Fife proposed the toast. Randy Fatt looked after the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Timnick were married in Novograd, Russia, July 5, 1918. They came to Canada in 1923 and settled in Regina, Sask., where they lived until their retirement in 1949 at which time they moved to Victoria.

They had six children. A son, Eugen, died in infancy and a daughter, Bertha, in 1940. Another son, Andrew, resides with his family at East Lansing, Michigan, and is presently on sabbatical in England. Their youngest son, Henry and his wife, live in Frankfurt, Germany. They have six grandchildren.

Protection

Food and drug protection costs each Canadian about 33 cents a year.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've read some letters in your column from women who considered becoming involved in that suburban swinger's game called "Switcheroo." I hope you will print a letter from a sad and sorry suburbanite who played the game and very nearly lost her home, her sanity and everything in life that matters.

My husband and I were fascinated with the stories we had heard about our upper middle class neighbors who got together Saturday nights and changed partners. At first it seemed so bizarre we couldn't imagine ourselves becoming involved in such lunacy. But when our new next-door neighbors suggested we go along — just to "observe," we agreed.

In that highly charged atmosphere, with just enough liquor to warp the judgment and dissolve the inhibitions, the inevitable happened. The couple we switched with were the next-door neighbors.

The rationale was as follows — and I admit I bought it hook, line and sinker: There's no reason why mature, well-balanced adults can't enjoy the physical aspects of sex without making an emotional investment. My husband and I congratulated ourselves on our mature approach. WE even persuaded ourselves that variety can revitalize a marriage that had grown dull and unexciting.

After a few months, tensions mounted. Our children grew suspicious. My husband and I began to argue. One day he'd say, "I want a divorce. I'm in love with the lady next door." The next day he'd say, "She's a snob. I wish I'd never seen her."

My neighbor-lover began to get on my nerves. He made a complete pest of himself and I was bored with his endless chatter. Finally, nobody was talking to anybody.

My husband and I decided the horrible involvement was ruining our lives. We agreed that we had to terminate our relationship with the neighbors, but it would be impossible so long as we lived next door. So we agreed to move, not only to another neighborhood but to another state.

This meant taking a job at a smaller salary, selling our home at a loss and putting our children out of schools where they were doing well. Our

Music-Making Fun for Young

By TRUDY KEMP

A number of young Victorians are playing selections from Brahms, Beethoven, Bach, and Handel on their miniature violins and just after a year of lessons.

The fact that these youngsters range in age from three to six years makes it all the more exciting for their parents and music teacher.

The children, many preschoolers, are students of Miss From Colquhoun. They have been studying the Suzuki style—a method developed in the Orient by a musician named Dr. Shinichi Suzuki of Matsumoto, Japan.

Miss Colquhoun, who met Dr. Suzuki in the summer of 1965 when she attended his workshop at Oberlin, Ohio, remarked on his "great empathy" where children are concerned.

"He has such an awareness of children and understands them," she said.

"Dr. Suzuki has pointed out how important it is for us to become aware of the inner nature of the child. He certainly does this himself and with gentleness and humor."

Dr. Suzuki is "a dedicated man" who believes that all children have unimagined potential and that finding ways to develop it is most important. He also believes that education begins from the day of birth.

A number of years ago Dr. Suzuki made a discovery which he said "overwhelmed him with astonishment." He discovered at that time that all children, throughout the world are educated to speak their native languages with the " utmost fluency," by a method which has been in continuous practice throughout all human history. "A child's abilities develop by being developed."

Keeping in mind this method education in learning the native language, Dr. Suzuki felt sure that such a process could be applied to musical education.

He decided to devise a new teaching approach based on his discoveries and its possibilities so fascinated him that after the Second World War he devoted his full time to develop it.

He prefers to start children at the age of three or four in musical education as he feels that an ear for music has to be acquired.

He believes that a child's ear should be trained as soon as possible and contends a baby will grow up tone deaf if he continually hears only off-key music.

One of Dr. Suzuki's ideas in his unique method of musical education for the very young was to leave the musical notation until later and begin with rhythm and sound.

The violin was selected as the most suitable instrument for several reasons. It is a social or group instrument, as well as one for individual playing; it is a "singing" instrument and playing the violin, like dancing, involves basically rhythmic body

Official Wants Minis Banned

MBABANE, Swaziland (AP)—"I am aware of the presence of mini-skirts among us," cabinet minister Prince Mkhambathi told Parliament when asked how he proposed to discourage female thigh exposure. "There should be strong antipathy against this fashion," he said. "I will seek permission to legislate against it."

First Meeting In 60 Years

WINNIPEG (CP)—After being separated for 60 years, Mrs. Michael Gayray, 77, of Winnipeg, met two of her brothers here—Adolphus Sigler, 73, of Cayabaga Falls, Ohio, and Ludwigs Hoffman, 71, from Heidelberg, Germany. They were last together in Austria in 1908. Hoffman took the name of relatives who adopted him as a child.

motions. The instrument is also available in sizes to fit the smallest child.

He also felt that training should be fun and so his young pupils are encouraged to consider their little violins as one of their most favorite possessions. Making music for these children soon becomes a game.

Dr. Suzuki's theories worked... thousands of Japanese children have learned to play violin since The Second World War and now many American and Canadian children are in on the fun, too, including about 50 young Victorians.

To these youngsters music has become as much a part of life as eating and sleeping.

Another vital link in this program is the parent. The mother, or father, attends each lesson and actually learns along with the child, taking notes, learning to tune the violin, understanding the correct posture and habits. "Interest of the parents is most important," said Miss Colquhoun.

"Sometimes my lessons become a family affair with other children in the family taking part and quite often father comes along to observe."

"This feeling of sharing means a lot to the young child," she explained.

Parents are the "home teachers" in the Suzuki method. They help with the child's practice, guiding, always encouraging, making him sense the importance of what he is doing, but not forcing him to do it.

Miss Colquhoun's young pupils listen regularly to recordings of music being studied and music to be studied. No written music is used by them at this point. Everything is learned by memory.

In teaching the younger children how to hold their violin, position of arm, fingering and bowing, Miss Colquhoun used various illustrations in keeping with their age levels.

Private lessons along with group experience are advocated in this program. Miss Colquhoun finds that the older children "love to help the younger ones" in these group sessions.

The little ones also learn quicker by listening to the older children. This is quite evident in a family where a little three-year-old's brothers or sisters have been playing for awhile.

"I saw a great deal of this group experience when I was in Japan last summer," said Miss Colquhoun.

The Victoria teacher was the only Canadian on the tour to Japan which was organized approval of the Victoria School Board. Mrs. Violet Delong started a small group of children from Sir James Douglas Kindergarten on the violin using the Suzuki method.

At about the same time Miss Colquhoun had also started teaching a number of youngsters privately along the same lines. Mrs. Delong and Miss Colquhoun had both attended his workshop in 1965 at Oberlin.

Mrs. Delong left Victoria the end of June, 1966, and shortly after Miss Colquhoun took over the Sir James Douglas School project, working for the school board.

She plans to attend another of Dr. Suzuki's workshops to be held later this summer at University of Wisconsin in Madison.

Two of her pupils, who have studied violin with her under the Suzuki method, will be taking the workshop. They are Jack, 10, and Paul, eight, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Derek MacDermot.

Miss Colquhoun emphasized that Dr. Suzuki's method of teaching music is not just for the young children. Some of her teenage students have knowledge of this method and are able to help her with the little children.

by the American String Teachers' Association. A visit to Dr. Suzuki's home in Matsumoto was a highlight of the trip.

In addition to her private pupils Miss Colquhoun teaches a group of primary grade students at Sir James Douglas School.

Restraining Injunction Refused

Hughes Bid for Network Stands

NEW YORK (UPI) — A U.S. district court judge Wednesday rejected the American Broadcasting Company's plea for an injunction restraining billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes from offering to buy a controlling interest in ABC for $148,500,000.

U.S. District Judge Dudley Borsal ruled that to grant the temporary injunction might do financial harm to ABC stockholders who want to accept the offer tendered by the Hughes Tool Co. of Houston.

"The balance of hardship in my view, tips against granting the temporary restraining order," Borsal said.

TEMPORARY
ABC issued a statement after the hearing saying "today's decision was merely a temporary ruling and a full hearing will be set on the issue."

Lawyers for both sides agreed to meet in Borsal's chambers Thursday to set a date for the hearing.

The Hughes Tool Co., which is wholly owned by the publicity-shy billionaire, offered to buy 43 per cent of ABC's common stock, 2,000,000 of the 4,700,000 outstanding shares, for $74.25 a share.

NEVER AGAIN?
"It may be that a stockholder would wish to sell his shares at $74.25 and may never have had another such offer," the judge said.

ABC lawyers had argued the Hughes proposal was damaging to ABC because the Federal Communications Commission had served notice it would tie up the votes of any ABC shares tendered to Hughes.

Hughes lawyers said if Borsal granted the injunction, the court would be depriving the FCC of its jurisdiction in determining the propriety of the acquisition.

They said the offer was equal to $15 a share above the price of ABC stock just before the offer was made and, therefore, ABC shareholders should be permitted to take advantage of it.

In his ruling, Borsal said if he had granted the restraining order, it would have "effectively destroyed the tender offer" offer violated a number of Exchange Commission. But federal laws and regulations of Borsal said he was not prepared to rule on that contention.

U.K. Given Advice On Trading

LONDON (UPI) — Britain should concentrate on trade with her "natural trading partners"—Canada, the United States, Latin America and Australia, a director of the Bank of England said Wednesday.

Sir George Bolton, addressing a luncheon meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce, said Britain should not "get too excited about the European economic community."

Instead, the growth of her "natural trading partners" would permit an expanding two-way trade and British growth in special skills such as the provision of international services, Bolton said.

Pointing to the success of the British-led European Free Trade Association, Bolton said Britain should not try to move closer to the Common Market.

He also advocated expanding trade with Eastern Europe.

Gotham Bomb Eighth in '68

NEW YORK (UPI) — The FBI entered the search Wednesday for terrorists, believed to be anti-Castro Cubans, who shattered windows in the Cuban and Yugoslav UN missions in the eighth politically-directed bombing in Manhattan in less than three months.

The bomb, described by police as of "fairly heavy size," exploded on the fire escape of a private home next door to the Cuban mission just off Fifth Avenue on East 67th Street.

Although close to the Cuban headquarters, the device did more damage to the Yugoslav mission around the corner on Fifth Avenue, breaking all rear windows. A similar incident in 1967 ripped the iron gate off the Yugoslav mission's entrance.

Cuban diplomats were silent on the bombing but the Yugoslav mission asked the U.S. to "take effective measures" and "put an end to such criminal acts." It said members of the mission staff had suffered "serious shock" as a result of the blast.

Altogether, authorities said, eight buildings including the two missions, the town house owned by real estate dealer Arthur Desser, and five apartment buildings suffered damage ranging from blasted masonry to broken windows. No one was injured although Desser's son Keith, 16, was asleep next to the vacant fourth-floor room outside which the bomb exploded.

"The whole building was rocking," said young Desser.

The blast touched off numerous fire alarms and 10 fire trucks were dispatched to the scene. Firemen and police knocked at the door of the Cuban embassy, a former private mansion, but no one would answer the door.

Nearly an hour later, several men emerged from the mission, inspected the damage, and rebuffed newsmen.

The seven previous bombings since last April 23 have involved consular or other offices of Mexico, Spain, Canada and Japan — four of the 36 non-communist countries who trade with Cuba — and two bars where Castroite Cubans congregate.

Stratford Sees Ballet

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—The Royal Winnipeg Ballet opened its 1968 Stratford Festival run at the Avon Theatre Tuesday night with a program of three new works and a classical favorite.

It is the second consecutive year the company has appeared as a regular part of the festival and this year it will perform in repertory until July 20 with the festival's production of Rossini's opera Cinderella, which had its opening Saturday night.

FOUR SECTIONS
First on the program was Pastiche, a 10-minute ballet choreographed by Spain's Jose Ferran and created for the Winnipeg company last Christmas. It combines the classical and Spanish idiom and consists of four sections, a mazurka, a schottische, another mazurka and a pas de deux.

Principal dancers are Richard Rutherford of Norfolk, Va., Ottawa's David Moroni and Sheila MacKinnon from Victoria, B.C. This was followed by The Black Swan pas de deux from Act 3 of Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake. Christine Hennessey of Providence, R.I., and Detlef Hoppmann of Berlin are the dancers.

ABSTRACT BALLET
Miss MacKinnon, Rutherford and Moroni are also featured in White the Spider Slept, an abstract ballet written after the assassination of President John Kennedy dealing with the disintegration of modern life.

The ballet, choreographed by Montreal's Brian Macdonald who is the company's official choreographer as well as artistic director of the Hartmann Ballet in New York City, also features Diana Bell of Vancouver. While the Spider Slept was also created for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Concluding the program was The Golden Age, a one-act ballet in seven scenes by American choreographer Agnes de Mille.

At CUNNINGHAMS WE CARE

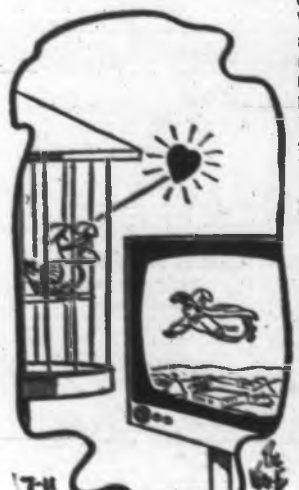

ABOUT TV

with Bruce Lowther

PEOPLE AND PROGRAMS: The U.S. National Association of Broadcasters says it is seeking a spokesman "an articulate national figure with a thorough knowledge of TV and radio." The reason is that U.S. broadcasters are expecting their worst year in 1968—not in business, but in trouble from politicians campaigning for re-election.

Another syndicated show has been cancelled. The Motormedia production firm, which aired Pat Boone some months ago, has dropped Woody Woodpecker, who never was seen here. Allen Ludden may get a talk show instead.

... ABC dropped its color tag before programs last fall and CBS says it is going to follow suit this fall. It removes clutter and, more important, boosts ad time. The NBC peacock will stay.

Riggers Aim High in All-Sooke Challenge

A high rigger dancing atop a 90-foot spar tree. The aroma of burning alder. The scientific stank of the axe and rasp of the saw — and sunny skies. All will be on parade

Saturday as traditional ingredients for the 33rd annual All-Sooke Day. More than 10,000 people are expected to settle themselves in the natural amphitheatre to watch the world's best loggers match muscle and brains for the Canadian championships. To fortify the crowd, three cooks are preparing a feast. Larry Rumsey has studied his 101-year-old secret recipe handed down from the Leech-town miners and ordered a pit prepared in which to barbecue 600 pounds of beef. Half a ton of spring salmon will be smoked above green alder fires under the direction of George Duncan. Saddest cook will be Ben Hughes as he orders his onion peelers to get ready the giant clam chowder. The sun will shine, predicts Community Association secretary Bob Walters, because it has never yet rained on All-Sooke Day. There will be no dust, though, he promises. Lush grass has grown all over the newly-landscaped flats area. For the first time there will be a parade to start the day — leaving Sooke at 10:30 a.m. and halting for the official opening of Sooke River Bridge. The provincial highways department is rushing completion of the road surface in the bridge area before Saturday. Children's sports — races and pie-eating contests — will begin at 1 p.m., and the loggers' sports will start in the arena at 1:30 p.m. There will be events for the old talents with the hand saw and axe, as well as power saw backing. Nimble high riggers and log briers will show their paces. An innovation will be a loggers' relay with five-man teams from Vancouver Island, the United States and the B.C. mainland matching skills.

The entire picnic will be organized by some 200 Sooke volunteers, and the proceeds will be used to further community events in the area for another year.

There will be parking in the grounds of Edward Milne high school, and a continuous shuttle bus service from there to the flats throughout the day.

Vancouver Island Coach Lines will run special buses from Victoria to Sooke for the picnic.

Wheelchair Excursion Overseas

MONTREAL (CP) — Volunteers leaving here Friday for a two-year African adventure as part of the Canadian University Services Overseas contingent are not necessarily spring graduates intent on spending their salad days abroad.

The 130-strong group finishing an intensive CUSO training course at Loyola College in preparation for two years' voluntary service in Africa includes a woman confined to a wheelchair and a family of five.

PART OF 1,000

They are part of the 1,000 trained nurses, engineers, agriculturists, accountants and teachers assigned this year by CUSO to developing countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean.

Ruth Heron, who was crippled 15 years ago by polio, will fly with her husband Jim to Dar-es-Salaam in Tanzania. The Montreal couple will be assigned to teaching posts.

The couple, who have a 22-year-old son, decided to volunteer for CUSO because they were dissatisfied with middle-class suburbia and "the niceties of life."

AS ANALYST

Heron is giving up a 15-year career as an analyst with an oil company for the two-year assignment.

Dick McGachie is leaving a firm of financial management consultants in Calgary, Alta., to go to Tanzania with his wife Eleanor and their three daughters, aged eight, 11 and 14.

McGachie said his family's reasons for going were not entirely altruistic.

THREE AUTOMATS

"We were bringing up three automatic consumers with televisions for eyeballs," he said. "They thought that money grew on trees and that their father must live in the branches."

"They—and we—are going to get all the advantages of being immersed in a very different culture at a very basic level."

CIVIL SERVANTS

The CUSO volunteers will be treated as civil servants of the countries in which they work. They will be paid roughly the equivalent of what an African in the same position earns. A teacher, for example, would earn about $2,400 a year.

Travelling and medical expenses are paid by CUSO, and the volunteers receive free language instruction.

CUSO is financed by federal government grants and private donations. The federal grant for 1968 was $2,374,000.

Parkland Yields To Oil

The provincial cabinet Wednesday cut six acres out of Mount Robson provincial park to accommodate an oil pipeline company.

An order-in-council removed the land from park jurisdiction because Trans-Mountain Oil Pipelines Ltd. is building a pumping station on it.

The company already has a 40-mile-long right-of-way through the park, obtained under its powers as a federally-chartered company, a provincial official explained.

Lightning Fires

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — F. H. Hewitt, Saskatchewan forestry director, said a dry lightning storm that swept across Saskatchewan started at least 40 forest fires.

Garden Notes

Pick the Lot!

By M. V. CHESNUT

Wednesday we were discussing the business of going away on annual holidays and the conditioning treatment to be given your lawn so it can look after itself during your absence. The flower beds and the vegetable plot could do with a few licks too. If they are to be green, healthy and productive upon your return.

Probably the most important of these pre-vacation chores is to make a tour of the garden picking everything in sight. Take off ALL the flowers — not only those which are a bit over the hill and starting to fade, but also those which may be spent and shed their petals during your absence. I'd even go so far as to cut off every bud which is showing any trace of color.

You see, there is a powerful instinct in every plant to perpetuate its race. Every attribute and every quality in a flower is designed for the fulfillment of this urge — its color, the shape of its petals, its fragrance and its secretion of sweet nectar are all for one purpose: to attract the pollinating insect so seed may be set and scattered and the future of the species assured.

Once a flower succeeds in accomplishing this mission — setting seed —

It has no further incentive to continue in bloom. Many of our most popular subjects will simply call it a day when they set seed, and pack up for the season.

If we want our flower beds to remain colorful right through the late summer, then, it is necessary to frustrate every attempt made by the flower to set and ripen its seeds. Hence the need to pick off all the flowers before leaving on vacation.

This principle holds for the vegetable plot too, and everything which could possibly ripen seed during your absence should be picked, even if you have to force armfuls of immature vegetables upon neighbors. Beans, peas and cucumbers are particularly vulnerable in this respect, and the vines will quit bearing at the drop of a hat if they are not kept picked over.

A lack of soil moisture will often trigger off a mechanism in many plants and vegetables to make them set seed prematurely, and this is especially true in lettuce and spinach. I think the failing water supply must throw a scare into the plants, and fearing their impending doom, they hurry into this business of perpetuating the race.

To guard against this, loosen the soil between the plants and between the vegetable rows, breaking up any crust which may have formed on the surface. Follow this up with a thorough, deep watering and then, if you can manage it, cover every square inch of bare soil with lawn mowings.

Quite a few of my gardening friends believe I have lost my marbles and have become a little "letched" on this subject of mulching, but the fact remains that you never see bare soil on wild land. Nature shames bare soil as she shames a vacuum, and she will shower down tree leaves upon it, cast airborne weed seeds on it, and do everything in her power to get it decently clothed as quickly as possible.

I do hope you'll give mulching a trial this year, covering all bare soil with lawn mowings, sawdust, peat moss, fir bark or what have you before leaving on your vacation. I am sure that when you return and see the cool, moist soil under the mulch and observe the strong, sturdy growth of your garden plants, you too will become a confirmed litter gardener.

If you'd like some holiday reading matter on the subject, I suggest How to Have a Green Thumb without an Aching Back and its sequel, Gardening Without Work, both by Ruth Stout.

ART BUCHWALD Gets Truth from Gaston

Fraternity French Myth

PARIS — It is a fact that France is suffering through its worst tourist season in years. This is not only affecting the French economically, but it is also having an unbearable effect on them psychologically.

My friend, Gaston, explained why. "You see, my dear old," Gaston said, "the tourist has always played a role in France far greater than he has in any other European country. It was not just a financial question, though heaven knows we were always happy to cash a traveller's cheque, but rather that the French could blame the tourist for everything that went wrong in France."

"I don't understand," I said. "Well, you remember your first year after the war that every time something bad happened in France it was the tourists' fault."

"If prices went up, it was because of tourists. If you couldn't get a table at a cafe, it was because the tourists had taken all the tables. If there were traffic jams, the French would blame the tourist buses."

"Every Frenchman delighted in telling an atrocious story about a tourist. It gave him a warm feeling." "I remember it well," I said. "Even as a foreigner living in France, I blamed the tourist for all my problems."

"That was wonderful," I said. Gaston continued, "We all played our part. Do you know once I wrote on the pavement in front of Maxim's restaurant 'U.S. Go Home'?"

"But alas," said Gaston sadly, "a few years ago the tourist traffic became less and less. By last year it was no more than a trickle. This year it stopped altogether."

"Why, Gaston, why?" "It was de Gaulle's fault. He talked so much about the grandeur of France that no tourist thought he was worthy enough to visit the country."

"Of course," I said, "tourists have terrible inferiority complexes to start with and it took someone like de Gaulle to scare the hell out of them."

tourists away," Gaston said, "was that the French were left without a scapegoat for all their troubles. Prices still went up, there were still traffic jams and you still couldn't get a table at a cafe. For the first time since the war, the French realized that it wasn't the tourists who were to blame for all their woes: it was themselves."

"What a terrible realization," I said. "It was more than most French could take." "What did they do?" I asked.

"They took to the barricades." "You mean all the troubles of the past few months in France were caused because there were no tourists in France?"

Remember When...?

Asks HAL BOYLE

Do you recall the days when—
Some unknown classmate peered an unguessed inscription in your high school yearbook: "Roses are red, violets are blue, somebody loves you — you'll never guess who."

Every kid in the family hated the chore of having to go down in the basement on winter nights and bank the coal fire in the furnace. Who knew what terrible demons lurked in those terrible cellar shadows?

Before he fell asleep a small boy would spend a delirious 10 minutes scratching the main left on his legs by the elastic bands he used to keep his long black stockings up.

The height of devil-may-care for a lad was to put his cap on backwards and ride down a long hill on his bicycle without holding on to the handlebars.

Only poor people were on diets, and they called it "doing without."

The traditional symbol of a grandfather was a long white beard, and the surest way to throw one of these old guffers into a tantrum was for a smart aleck to ask him, "Grandpa, do you sleep with your whiskers under the covers or over them?" His usual tart reply: "That's for me to know, sonny, and you to find out."

A Beau Brummell was a guy whose wardrobe sported more than three clip-on bow ties.

Railway dining cars were widely believed to serve the best meals in the country. And you know you were in a pretty high-toned restaurant if it kept the pies in a glass case to protect them from the flies.

If a farm family was short of cash, the doctor was willing to accept a sack of fresh vegetables in lieu of his usual $3 fee.

The difference between a city and a small town was that in a city there were more interesting things a fellow could do after dark without causing gossip.

Those were the days! Remember.

Man Stands Alone

DR. STUART ROSENBERG

Take away the right of the individual to be himself, and you've destroyed the great attribute of man — his capacity for self-awareness. It is fairly widely recognized that many men perished by animals are not only the equal, but in many ways far superior, to the works of man. The kingdom of birds and beasts often outperforms the human species in activities requiring complicated systems of coordination, cooperation, and collaboration.

Does consistently construct their cells in perfect and precise ways. Ants operate regularly according to a well-defined division of labor and in obedience to complicated patterns of social organization.

The animal world moves according to plan and is maintained and preserved by a built-in stability. Its world can go on and on, uncomplicated by any possible change in rules. Change the rules, however, and the species can be wiped out.

The society of animals is a society of action, not one of thought and feeling — and this is what gives stability to its life-pattern. But as soon as old actions cannot be maintained, the old stabilities fall apart and the future is threatened.

With men, things are quite different. The society of man is a society of thought and feeling, and no rules of action are forever safe.

Man's world is less stable because it depends upon novelty — the newness each individual brings to it. Thought and feeling produce personal choice and afford man an awareness of himself. No man who has experienced himself can remain chained to the choices of the whole human race. His culture, his tradition, his country, his art, his literature, his God — all of these belong to no one else if they do not also belong to him. And they belong to him in a very special way — his way.

Animals are determined by their biology alone. Man has a psyche, and he uses it, he transcends his biology with his psychology.

This is so because no man can live his life without expressing his life. The various ways in which he gives expression to his thoughts and feelings make him into an individual with a life of his own.

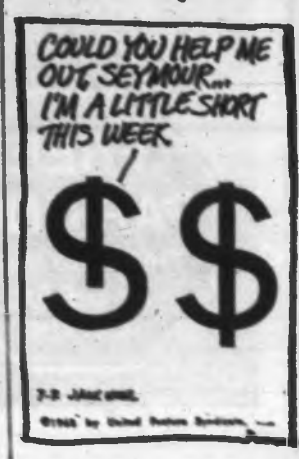

He must rely upon fixed and stable forms which he inherits from his animal nature. But with his will he can do more than satisfy the fixed requirements of his physical frame. He not only reproduces, he creates.

said that man's fate is in his genes: anatomy, Freud taught, is destiny. But only fate speaks of man's fate — whether beyond him, from above, or before him, from within.

Not in his fate, but in his faith, is man's glory. Faith in himself as a man — as a changing and experiencing being — not as an inert, unchanging and experiencing being — not as an inert, unchanging speck of universal dust or as a random cluster of fixed genes.

And faith in oneself is generated by one's powers of thought and feeling, powers that separate men from animals, and even more — the men from the boys.

Child Poisoning Danger

Mother Nature Can Be Deadly

By ARNOLD OLSON

Possibly the most difficult danger to protect a child from is that of poisoning.

Not only do people put chemicals into attractive bottles and cans, but nature gift-wraps her lethal doses.

Poison control officials warned this week that several Victoria children had already been treated in emergency wards for poisoning from eating laburnum pods.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, warned of household poisoning earlier this month.

"People never seem to learn that they must keep household cleaning fluids and dangerous medicines either locked away or well out of the reach of children," he said.

He said of the 271 poisonings of children under 14 years of age reported this year, 263 were under nine years old.

The attractive spray cans of insect and garden sprays are also a hazard, and will be increasingly so as more are marketed.

One three-year-old girl recently tried to imitate her mother's hair-spraying last month.

She picked up a can of a popular insect spray from a store shelf and doused her hair with it.

Doctors said it was only because she wears glasses that serious eye damage didn't result.

This happened in less than the 30 seconds it took her mother to look at an article higher on the shelf.

Driver Hurt At Sooke

Renneth Collins, of Sooke, was in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with possible internal injuries early Thursday morning. Sooke RCMP said the car he was driving went over an embankment between Sooke River Bridge and the RCMP office on Sooke Road. Roads were extremely slippery at the time of the accident, 7:30 p.m., police said.

The former lieutenant-governor and his wife returned to their home on Tattersall Drive when they left Government House at the end of June.

Giving them the freedom of the municipality means their names will be at the top of the list of registered voters. If Saanich had parking meters — and it doesn't — they would get parking privileges.

The special meeting of council is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. in municipal hall. Invitations have been sent out and officials expect 150 to 200 people will be there.

Courtroom Parade

Officer Loses Tooth In Drive-In Tussle

A Saanich police constable described Wednesday in Central Magistrate's Court how he began writing a ticket for a traffic infraction and ended losing a tooth in a struggle with the motorist.

Constable Robert Pringle was giving evidence in the trial of Colin Moleworth, 22, of 1176 Yates, who pleaded not guilty to escaping lawful custody, assaulting Constable Pringle, causing a disturbance and dangerous driving.

The policeman said he was on foot patrol June 14 at the White Spot parking lot at the Town and Country plaza when a car driven by Moleworth drove through a stop sign.

KEPT SHOUTING

The car returned soon afterward and Constable Pringle spoke to Moleworth, who denied running the sign.

"During the entire time I was writing the ticket, the accused was shouting obscenities," Constable Pringle said. "...I told him if he disputed it, to tell his story to the magistrate."

"He replied, 'You can't beat these  either.'"

Constable Pringle said he warned Moleworth several times to stop swearing, get into his car and to go home.

GO AHEAD

"He held up both hands and said, 'Go ahead, cop, arrest me. I'll get in a couple of punches,'" Constable Pringle said.

At one time Moleworth invited the police officer to remove his badge and his hat and "come into the lot and I'll see how much guts you have," court was told.

Constable Pringle said that after Moleworth made more obscene remarks, he arrested him.

Moleworth's right hand grazed the constable's side and the two grappled before falling to the ground, court was told. At one stage, Constable Pringle lost a front tooth when Moleworth's "foot or leg" struck him on the chin.

Constable Pringle said he appealed to the crowd that had gathered to grab Moleworth's hands. There was no immediate assistance, but some young men parted the two.

Constable Pringle said he picked up his hat and tooth and when he pushed through the crowd, Moleworth was in his car.

"I heard him say something to the effect that no one had better get in his way," the constable testified. "He pulled ahead, bumped into another vehicle, backed up with a jerk and took off."

To defence counsel John Hagg, Constable Pringle said he weighed 220 pounds and was six feet two inches tall, bigger than Moleworth.

"I did not try to hit him at any time," he said. "I just tried to hold him."

LET HIM GO

Other crown witnesses testified to hearing Moleworth swearing and to seeing the two struggle. One of them, Larry Travis, said he heard Constable Pringle shout when Moleworth got into his car: "Stop that man. I want that man. No, let him go, he's gone crazy, he'll kill someone."

The trial will continue July 15. J. W. Anderson appears for the crown.

Kenneth Moorehouse, 30, who is currently serving an 18-month term in Colquhoun jail on Wilkeson Road for theft, was sentenced to 27 months in jail when he pleaded guilty to five counts of uttering and two of false pretences.

Court was told the offences were committed in January in Nanaimo, Abbotsford, Matsqui and Kelowna and involved the passing of worthless cheques for which Moorehouse received $800 in cash and goods.

Moorehouse received the 18-month term June 1 in Victoria, court was told. He admitted previous convictions of theft, forgery, uttering and false pretences.

Joseph Brunner, 36, of Campbell River received the sentence after being convicted of driving on Trans-Canada Highway July 6 while his licence was suspended.

Frank Hualal, 30, of 1280 Denman was remanded to July 18 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after pleading guilty to theft, driving while his licence was suspended and to being a minor in possession of liquor.

Constable John Johnston said two people staying at the Century Inn saw a man Tuesday night from their window enter a car in the parking lot and remove some objects and drive away in another car.

The registration number of the second car was given to police and Hualal was stopped about two hours later. Constable Johnston said he found in Hualal's vehicle a car tape player, eight tapes and six bottles of beer which had been taken from the other car.

He said he found another eight bottles of beer in Hualal's car and said Hualal's licence had been suspended since Jan. 30.

William Blackwell of St. Paul, Minn., was remanded to July 17 for a pre-sentence report after he pleaded guilty to obtaining lodgings by fraud. He gave a worthless cheque July 5 to pay for his $65 rent at the City Centre Motel, 855 Douglas.

Fined for careless driving: Dennis Carlow, 630 Paul Bay, $50, licence suspended; David Euler, 145 Montreal, $40; Charles Lewis, 36 Festin, $45.

Kenneth Matson, 350 Alder, was fined $450 and remanded to July 19 for disposition of his licence when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. He was involved in an accident Tuesday night on Douglas and gave a breathalyzer reading of .25 per cent.

Unhealthy Salts All Recovered

OTTAWA (CP) — All 240 bottles of poisonous health salts manufactured by a Montreal drug company and shipped to Ottawa stores have been recovered, Dr. Ross Chapman, director-general of the federal food and drug directorate, said Tuesday.

Candidate Still Fighting Last Federal Election

The June 25 federal election is not over in Victoria, at least as far as Independent George Burnham is concerned.

He is still seeking to have the results set aside on the grounds that the Elections Act was contravened.

Mr. Burnham said Tuesday that it appeared Ottawa had no set way of enforcing the provisions of the Canada Elections Act — "I've just received a letter from the chief returning officer who says he can do nothing about my case, so now I'm writing to responsible government members."

"I don't intend to let things drop just because of a difficulty," he said.

Mr. Burnham has charged that candidates in Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich broadcast election material on Sunday, June 23, and that there had been irregularities in voting cards distributed by some candidates.

"Apparently the federal election officer has no power in this matter," said Mr. Burnham.

"He wrote to say the matter was beyond his control."

"Instead, I'm sending the necessary information to Donald S. MacDonald (new federal minister appointed to assume direction of special duties on reform of parliamentary procedures and the Canada Elections Act.)"

"It seems strange to me that there would be an act, and no way to enforce it," said Mr. Burnham. "Maybe Mr. MacDonald will want to see laws enforced before he makes more."

Potlatch Gains Again In Hawaii Run

Two Vancouver brothers continued to hold first and second place in the 2,300-mile Victoria to Maui, Hawaii yacht race Wednesday, but an eerie, windless area of the Pacific was seriously delaying their progress.

At the same time, the 33-foot Victoria sloop Potlatch, skippered by Wally Meakes, was covering more miles than any of the other 13 boats in the race. It had moved from fifth to third place.

Lol Kiliam, sailing the 47-foot Velaris, continued in the lead as he swung from southwest to south to escape the belt of low-velocity wind about 1,000 miles west of Victoria.

In second place in his brother Bill's Purgaine III.

The lead boats were reported to be about 1,300 miles from their destination.

Tactics employed by skippers to avoid the windless area have split the 14 boats into two fleets. The southerly group is led by Moushlow III, guided by Don Nielsen of Tacoma.

Largest craft in the race, the 31-foot HMCS Oriole from Esquimalt, was in eighth place, one back of the smallest boat, one 33-foot Suerte II from Seattle.

Other Victoria boats and their positions include Don Lawson's Cubana, 16th, and Dave Angus' Tiffany, 11th.

All five Vancouver entries are from the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. The club co-sponsors the event with the Lahaina Yacht Club of Hawaii.

Monopolies Body Rejects Bank Merger

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's monopolies commission has voted six to four against the merger of three of the country's biggest banks and the government now is to decide what action to take.

President of the board of trade Anthony Crosland announced the decision to Parliament Tuesday. He added the commission recommended against the merger between Barclays Bank Ltd., Lloyds Bank Ltd., and Martins Bank Ltd.

It also recommended against a merger of Barclays and Lloyds banks. The proposed triple merger would have made the group easily the largest in Britain and the fourth largest bank in the world.

Crosland said, however, the majority vote in the commission was not big enough for him to use his existing powers to prevent the merger.

mission's report and will "reach their own conclusion and decide what action is needed," he said. Crosland said prolonged uncertainty was undesirable and promised an early announcement.

The three banks said they would not comment at this stage except to repeat their own view that it was "in the interests of their customers, their staffs and the shareholders of the banks that the merger goes through."

CAPE TOWN (UPI) — Dorothy Haupt, 22, the widow of heart donor Olive Haupt, said Wednesday she wants her husband's heart back if Dr. Philip Blalberg undergoes a second heart transplant.

Mrs. Haupt said she wants the heart back because a Cape Town spiritualist has told her the dead husband could not rest without his heart.

B.C.-Cities Breakthrough

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

A joint study of municipal-provincial finance in B.C. will be embarked upon by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and the provincial government.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, who made the announcement with UBCM president, Kamloops Mayor Peter Wing, said it will probably be at least a year before any results are made public.

Mayor Wing said: "I'm very pleased — and proud, I might say — to say that for the first time that both the municipalities and the provincial government are in complete unanimity on this vital question."

NEED NEW DETAILS

Mr. Campbell said the machinery of local government for the 1970s, as far as legislation is concerned, has been modernized. Now, he said, there is a need to obtain new and accurate details of financial relationships, including proposed federal participation in urban affairs, as well as taxation in relation to quality of service.

"In the past, in my opinion," Mr. Campbell said, "royal commissions have not contributed much in the way of objective data concerning the relationships between the various levels of government, and on the quality of services received by local taxpayers in relation to the level of taxes they pay."

ADVERSARIES OF THEORIES
The minister said this was true of the recently completed Ontario royal commission on municipal financing, which took 4½ years to complete at a cost of some $5,000,000.

Apart from the question of cost, he added, the commissions had to cope with a basic disadvantage — the parties appearing before them, except

U.S. Told to Wake Up 'Before It's Too Late'

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, the famed pediatrician-author was sentenced to two years in prison and was fined $5,000 Wednesday for anti-draft activities, but shortly afterward promised to continue active opposition to the Vietnam War.

Spock, 65, was convicted with three other men June 14 on federal charges of conspiring to counsel, aid and abet young men to avoid the draft. Two-year prison sentences also were imposed on Yale University chaplain William Gilman Coffin Jr., 43; author Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Me., and Harvard graduate student Michael Feber, 23. Coffin and Goodman were fined $5,000 and Feber was fined $1,000.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford stayed the sentences and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds pending their appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court.

Addressing a news conference after the sentencing, Spock repeated his contention that the Vietnam war is illegal, an argument that Judge Ford rejected as a defence at the trial.

"I'm still not convinced that I broke any law. There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam war," the pediatrician said in a loud voice, sometimes breaking up and shouting: "Let's stop this war."

"I certainly intend to go on working against the war in appearance across the country," he said. Pounding on a table, he said:

"I say wake up. Get out there and do something before it's too late. This war could be stopped if millions of Americans stood up and shouted: 'Let's stop this war.'"

Jubenville Urges 'No'

By DON COLLINS

Settlement came to the long, boisterous forest industry dispute Wednesday, but within hours its permanency was under a cloud of doubt.

A memorandum of two-year agreement signed in the afternoon split the union negotiating team down the middle, and the bitter dissent is scheduled to spill over the rank and file.

It appeared that more than half of the 26,000 to 28,000 forest workers involved might be advised by their bargainers to reject the agreement.

Two of the International Woodworkers of America negotiators who will seek this end are Syd Thompson and Weldon Jubenville. Mr. Thompson is president of the 7,000-member Vancouver local and Mr. Jubenville is his counterpart in the 4,000-strong Duncan local.

They expect support from the 4,000-member Port Alberni local, where Walter Allen is president.

They have aimed their wrath at Jack Moore of Vancouver, regional IWA president, for what they call "lack of leadership," and at Victoria local president Murray Drew.

Mr. Drew, who made the motion to accept the two-year offer from the 114 forest companies, was accused by some of the others of threatening to pull his 1,800-member local out of negotiations if the pact wasn't signed.

The agreement was signed an hour before the 4,000 members of the loggers' local were scheduled to strike.

ALREADY OUT

The loggers had set a separate strike deadline of 4 p.m. Wednesday and about 500 had already walked off the job by the time the settlement was made known.

If the rank and file accept what they have been offered, they will get 35 cents an hour on top of a basic rate of $2.76 in two 18-cent stages during the two years of the agreement.

But the companies did not budge on the holiday demands and some of the other fringe requests of the IWA.

For those making the basic rate, the 35 cents will represent a 12.04-per-cent wage

Moscow Escalates Attack On Czech Reform Drive

General on Prague TV:

'New Situation Has Arisen'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czech newspapers demanded an explanation Wednesday for the continued presence of Soviet troops in the nation. A spokesman for the government said a "new situation" had arisen on the issue and that there would be discussions.

The newspapers asked why Soviet troops had stayed in Czechoslovakia after the conclusion of Warsaw Pact manoeuvres, which ended 11 days ago. The demands put Czech anxiety over the presence of Soviet troops into the open.

Lt. Gen. Vazlav Prchlik appeared on Czech television Wednesday night and was asked why Russian troops still were on Czech soil.

"Apparently a new situation has arisen," he said. "There will be new negotiations on the matter. For the time being I cannot give any answer to questions. Let's stick to the old proverb: The morning is wiser than the evening."

Prchlik said he would speak further on the situation today.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda says "counterrevolutionary forces" in Czechoslovakia are trying to exploit "the unstable situation" in that country to undermine communism.

It was the sharpest attack yet by an official Soviet organ on elements in Czechoslovakia that have been pushing Prague's new reform Communist leadership for faster liberalization. The language of the Pravda article and an earlier published attack by another Moscow newspaper suggest that the Soviets believe the Czechoslovak reform drive is slipping out of control.

GRAVE TERM

The term "counterrevolutionary" is a grave one in the communist lexicon, meaning those who oppose the established rule of the party. When Russian tanks rolled into Budapest 12 years ago it was to crush a Hungarian "counterrevolution."

Pravda writer I. Alexandrov says efforts are under way "to smear and discredit the Communist party of Czechoslovakia ... to undermine the foundation of the state."

Postal Strike Set for July 18

Crouse

MONTREAL (CP) — Postal union leaders said Wednesday a nationwide strike of 24,000 workers will be held July 18.

At a mass meeting of postal employees at an east-end arena, Marcel Perreault, local president of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees, and Maurice Briere, president of Montreal of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, told their members

July 18 is the date set for a walkout unless the Council of Postal Union Workers, in charge of strike arrangements decide otherwise.

They said this date is seven days after completion of a conciliation report by a three-man conciliation board, thus making the strike legal. The report was handed Wednesday to Jacob Fishbein, chairman of the public service staff relations board in Ottawa.

The union leaders said they understand the report contains no pay increase. If this were so it cleared the way for a national strike.

Questioned by members about the date of the strike, Perreault said it could be changed but did not believe it would be set beyond July 20.

The members were reminded that a national strike vote of all members of both unions had resulted in 94 per cent giving union leaders authority to call a strike if contract negotiations proved unsatisfactory.

Britain Sending Veteran Envoy

LONDON (CP) — Sir Colin Crouse, 54-year-old career diplomat, will be Britain's next high commissioner in Canada, it was announced Wednesday.

He is expected to take over in September from Sir Henry Lintott, 59, who will retire after holding the post since October, 1963, the foreign office said.

Crouse served in China from 1936 to 1940 and in Washington from 1940-45. He also worked in Paris, Tel Aviv, Cairo and at the United Nations in New York where he was deputy British representative from 1961 to 1963. He was ambassador to Saudi Arabia from 1963-64.

He is at present one of the key men in merging the Commonwealth and foreign offices. His official title is chief of the diplomatic administration service.

Kootenay-Banff Parks

Tourists Flee Blaze

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Some 100 tourists were told to leave the Marble Canyon Camp ground 25 miles west of here late Wednesday as a 2,000-acre forest fire blazed its way towards the area.

Officials did not report any persons missing or injured, but three persons trapped by the fire in Kootenay National Park, 30 miles west of here, had to be rescued by helicopter.

The three, all from Toronto, were identified as Archibald McQuade and his two daughters, Theresa, 16, and Bernadette, 12.

They were of a family of five, holidaying in the area.

A Banff national park official said Mrs. McQuade and the couple's son Richard, 15, were found on the Banff-Windermere Highway. They had stayed behind while McQuade and his daughters explored the Stanley Glacier area when advancing flames blacked their return to the highway.

Keith Paviour, the park official, said experts did not expect the fire to overrun the Marble Canyon camp ground.

The nearest settlement in the path of the fire was the 12-unit Storm Mountain lodge, about 20 miles west of here. Guests staying at the lodge were told to leave. Late in the evening, the fire had approached within one mile of the lodge.

The forest fire started in British Columbia's Kootenay Park Tuesday, and crossed into Alberta Wednesday afternoon. By evening the blaze had advanced two miles into Alberta.

Some 200 men from the Alberta and B.C. forestry services were fighting to contain the fire, believed to have been started by a lightning storm. Students holidaying in the area were also recruited.

Four water bombers were pressed into service and a 25-

Three Vote Margin by Barnett

Recount to Take Three Days

PORT ALBERNI — Lawyer F. Armour Ford, official agent for Liberal candidate Dick Durante in the Comox-Alberni riding, has announced a judicial recount will commence this morning at 9:30 in the Public Safety Building.

At present, NDP candidate Tom Barnett leads Durante by three votes.

The recount will be conducted by Judge H. C. McKay, county court. Decision on which of the various ways a judicial recount may be made — as set out in the Elections Act — will be entirely in Judge McKay's hands, Mr. Ford said.

The recount is expected to take at least three days. Allowing for Saturday and Sunday, no decision will be handed down until Monday at the earliest, Mr. Ford predicted.

NONE RECALLED

Judicial recounts are comparatively rare, none can be recalled in this riding. The candidate requesting the recount must post $250 and the candidate or his representative is expected to be present during the recount.

Bus Transit Future Residents' Choice

NANAIMO — Ratepayers in Wellington, Northfield, Harwood and Departure Bay will vote July 31 on whether to grant an operating subsidy to Nanaimo Transit Ltd.

The Nanaimo regional district board has released details of the plan which would add one mill to 1969 taxes in the area.

ANNUAL COST

An annual cost of $25,000 is the amount required to keep the system operative.

The report stated:

"The question of granting an operating subsidy to the bus transit system in Greater Nanaimo has been under active consideration for the past two months."

EIGHT YEARS

The regional district board has carried out a close examination of the bus operation and has reviewed costs, passenger traffic, etc., for the past eight years.

It has been found that a steady decline in traffic has occurred and the need for a subsidy was definitely confirmed.

In reviewing the available records, however, it became obvious that there was really insufficient information on which to base any long term subsidy. While total revenues and expenditures indicated the need for subsidy, actual passenger traffic and operating costs on each route were unavailable.

With these facts in mind, the regional district board proposes to grant a subsidy for the two-year period ending Sept. 30, 1969. This subsidy will be sufficient to keep the system in operation and enable the board to secure the kind of information needed before any decision is made to extend the period of subsidy, cancel it, or take any other action.

NANAIMO TO JOIN?

The poll of landowners will be held only in the electoral areas. Participation by the city of Nanaimo is a decision which will be made by the city council. It has been apparent since January 1 that without a subsidy the system would have had to cease operation.

Some Drivers Lack Driving Licences

PORT ALBERNI — Young people and some older ones who drive without licences will find themselves in trouble if they are caught in Port Alberni, council has warned.

Ald. Charles Blair expressed concern over last month's RCMP report which showed that 18 persons were picked up without licences. Enquiries showed eight had licences but did not have them with them when apprehended. Ten had no licences at all.

ANOTHER SIX

The latest report says six have been picked up without licences.

"This could jeopardize a person's chance of getting a licence later," said Ald. Blair.

He warned young people that taking such a chance is not only an offence but could have far-reaching repercussions later.

SCHOOL AREA

RCMP have also been asked to provide strict enforcement of speed limits in the area covered by the long detour required during reconstruction on Johnson Road.

The detour winds through school and playground areas, as well as a residential area in which many youngsters live.

Hospital Gains New Life

New roof, fresh paint help brighten aging former Nanaimo Hospital building. Many proposed schemes for structure were turned down by council as being too costly to get building back into good health—including unsafe wiring and boiler. However, building apparently has gained new lease of life in renovated temporary quarters of Upper Island Regional College. First students will be accepted early in new year from school districts of Nanaimo, Campbell River, Parksville, Qualicum, Ladysmith, Duncan and Lake Cowichan. —(Agnes Flett)

River Diking Finds Favor

DUNCAN—Dyking in the lower reaches of the Cowichan River would find approval by Fisheries department officials, Ald. Herbert Halliday of Lake Cowichan told Wednesday night's Cowichan Valley regional district board meeting.

Ald. Halliday is the chairman of the regional district board's flood control committee.

He said the fisheries officials, stated at a recent meeting, another study of the Cowichan River will be made this year and will be completed by next May.

The fisheries officials termed the present Cowichan River flood control proposal by the water rights branch at "catastrophic for the fish" because all fish would be wiped out, Ald. Halliday said. The sideman said that, according to the experts, dyking would not disturb the fish.

Several months ago the water rights branch released a flood control plan which called for dredging and straightening of the Cowichan River to allow for more rapid drainage into the sea at Cowichan Bay.

This plan was sharply criticized by fish and game groups which claimed it would prove to be disastrous for sports and commercial fishing because the much faster water flow would destroy not only the fish but the spawning grounds. Ald. Halliday said his committee will meet with water rights branch and Indian Affairs Department officials in September.

He said a different flood control plan would have to be worked out for the Lake Cowichan area.

In other news:

The regional district board ambulance committee will study two different locations for a new ambulance headquarters. One would be on Canada Avenue at the site of the old city of Duncan public works yard.

Also proposed is an old gas station at the intersection of Coronation Avenue and the Trans-Canada Highway.

Ald. Jim Saunders of Duncan said cost for land on Canada Avenue would be 50 cents per square foot.

The old gas station would cost $20,000 plus cost for renovation purposes amounting to about $15,000.

Representative from the Duncan Kiwanis Ambulance Society, George Sindén, told the board his men would prefer the site at the highway because 60 per cent of accidents are either north or south on the highway and about 40 per cent on Maple Bay and Lake Cowichan roads.

The board accepted the application from Peter W. Heyward, 43, clerk-treasurer of the city of Revelstoke for the position of Cowichan Valley regional district secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Heyward, was one of 25 applicants who wrote from as far as Montreal. He starts in September.

Fair Faces Bleak Life Without Curling Rink

DUNCAN — Cowichan Exhibition president, Tom Groves has told city council that if the exhibition lost the curling rink on James Street, the fall fair would develop into a straight agricultural event.

He said the privately-owned curling rink is for sale. It is feared that a commercial enterprise may buy it and the building would be lost for recreational purposes.

In the past, the curling rink was one of the most important assets to the exhibition because it housed all indoor exhibits, he said.

Mr. Groves said use of the building is assured this year. He urged council to consider helping to buy the rink with North Cowichan municipality.

He said the rink is zoned for commercial use.

YOUTH FACILITIES

"The Exhibition board is very concerned about the possible loss of the facilities for youth in this area. It is adjacent to a planned recreation centre and the building and site may be lost to the public ownership and public use. It is the only ice available in Duncan for skating."

Seven Taken Aboard After Seiner Sinks

CAMPBELL RIVER—The 50-year-old American seiner Spalding, shipped by George Williams out of Bellingham with six students aboard bound for Alaska fishing grounds, collided with the Canadian Fish Co. packer Cape Scott and sank in Seymour Narrows Wednesday.

The Cape Scott took the seven aboard and proceeded to the company's Vancouver wharf.

After Complaints

Work Goes Ahead

DUNCAN — A project to update lavatory facilities at Beach elementary school is expected to be completed for the September school opening, Cowichan district school trustees have been told by George Routley.

Parents had complained a few weeks ago that washroom facilities in the school were substandard. At that time the board said that tenders were to be called.

Trustee John Erford said no tenders had been received for the job.

"We have decided we should do the job ourselves with local labor," he said. "This will cost about $7,100."

Island Access

Winding past some of the most attractive scenery on Island is 50-mile road linking Campbell River to instant pulp town of Gold River. Western Paving Co. has contracted to complete 23-mile stretch between Gold River and Buttle Lake trestle by September. This, coupled with eight miles already paved out of Campbell River, means more than half distance will be paved. Road essentially follows private logging roads, and gives—for the first time—public access to central Vancouver Island. —(Brian Kyle)

Village Boon to Salt Spring's Aged

By BEA HAMILTON GANGES — Pioneer Village, Salt Spring Lions Club project, is a year-old. And it is as if the village had always been part of the island. The village is one of the many projects by the Lions Club — and one of its most ambitious so far.

Villagers have all they need — they are near Lady Minto hospital, the doctor's office, highway crews have just put in a special walk away from the rush of traffic, and they are near the salt water. They are also within walking distance of Ganges and can use Centennial Park for an outing.

Rents go toward the upkeep and maintenance of the property, and toward repayment of a government loan taken out during construction.

There are 22 units, and all but two are filled. A man is employed to trim lawns. Two who are enjoying their cottages are Mrs. Emma Smith and Mrs. Florence Kitchener.

"We like our homes very much," said Mrs. Kitchener. They attend garden parties and teas in the village, visit friends, and sometimes just stay at home to watch television.

Picket Result

While settlement of threatened B.C. coast logging strike-lockout was being arranged Wednesday afternoon in Vancouver, there was confusion on Vancouver Island, especially in more distant camps where brief wildcat stoppages had occurred and picket lines set up. Three of seven loaded logging trucks at Western Forest Industries camp at Gordon River were halted on roadside as result of pickets. These trucks were later allowed to dump their loads in case of their being needed for any forest fire work. —(Agnes Flett)

RCMP Load Rising Each Month

LAKE COWICHAN — Corporal Scott Coxen of the RCMP at Lake Cowichan has been congratulated "on the fine job you and your men are carrying out in the village," at a village council meeting.

Cpl. Coxen attended the meeting to discuss mutual problems with village aldermen.

He said there are no real problems in the village or surrounding municipality.

INCREASED

"The work load has definitely gone up in the last two years. Last year almost $11,000 in fines went out of this district, and this year we are averaging about $1,200 a month."

He continued: "Traffic is on the increase, especially on the weekends. This is especially noticeable since the opening of North Shore Road around the lake, and more people are using the backroads through Lake Cowichan to Tofino and Bamfield."

DOUBLE TRAFFIC

"If the Cowichan Lake Road was finished, it would probably double the amount of traffic through Lake Cowichan," he said.

Cpl. Coxen said since March 1 there has been a big drop in crime in the district. He said this has been especially evident "since one small group are now serving time in Mainland institutions."

NOT ORGANIZED

"There are a few minor thefts and break-ins, but no organized crime is coming into the area now."

Cpl. Coxen said he has one problem which is also prevalent across the country.

"People phone up and mention problems and other things, but they do not want to get involved in court, so they do not co-operate to the fullest by assisting in following up the problem or situation," he said.

EXCELLENT EFFECT

"The 24-hour suspension for suspected impaired drivers has had an excellent effect on drinking drivers."

"In this district we have not had a anybody ask for the breathalyzer test yet, and we have had it to use in the district for over a year."

TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

Cpl. Coxen said he has been working closely with the village's superintendent of works, Vic Palmer, in organizing traffic and other minor problems.

"We are going on to two years now without a traffic fatality in this district. The two years will be up Sept. 25 this year. Considering the amount of traffic we have moving out of here and through here, this is very good."

LOGGING ROADS

His district is from Paldi, 10 miles east of Lake Cowichan to the Island's west coast. He and two other members of his staff cover the entire area including logging roads.

He said: "We have had only one industrial fatality since I have been stationed here. This is also good considering the amount of industry. This record shows the safety consciousness of the people."

RATE GOES UP

Cpl. Coxen said there were 122 traffic accidents in 1966, compared to only 96 accidents last year. "However in the first five months of this year, the accident rate is up 37 per cent over comparable figures in 1967."

Coxen

"Bad and bald tires on wet roads cause many accidents," he said. "Too much horsepower under the hood for light cars and drivers who are not competent to handle all that horsepower is another big reason."

LIQUOR INVOLVED

"Liquor is involved in a few accidents. I find in most accidents in this area, property damage is heavy and this is why insurance rates are so high here. If a truck and trailer tips over, it is not uncommon to have $10,000 to $15,000 damage."

Cpl. Coxen said there have only been one or two morning accidents in the last three or four months.

SPEED KEPT DOWN

"I have been on patrol in the morning, here, there and everywhere," he said.

"Loggers and millworkers coming to work don't know where I will turn up next, and the result is that these drivers have slowed right down."

"I have only had to warn a couple of them in the past three or four months."

CONSTABLE SOUGHT

Cpl. Coxen said he has asked for one more man for the district. "I feel the large area we have to cover certainly calls for the addition of another constable."

He has also asked for a boat for the area, and it is expected it will be supplied in the near future.

DRUG RUMORS

Asked about the existence of a drug problem in the area, he said: "We have heard rumors but if there is one it is so minute we cannot find it. I understand there may be a small amount of use of marijuana in the district. This is a concern to us. One grain is of concern to me."

"We have our eye on two or three individuals in town. We keep checking them but we have not got anything on them yet. But we are keeping an eye on them."

He added: "LSD is on its way out. Even the hippies won't touch it. They have found it too dangerous."

Donor's Widow Wants Husband's Heart Back

CAPE TOWN (UPI) — Dorothy Haupt, 22, the widow of heart donor Olive Haupt, said Wednesday she wants her husband's heart back if Dr. Philip Blalberg undergoes a second heart transplant.

Mrs. Haupt said she wants the heart back because a Cape Town spiritualist has told her the dead husband could not rest without his heart.

B.C.-Cities Breakthrough

Finance Study Joint Venture

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

A joint study of municipal-provincial finance in B.C. will be embarked upon by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities and the provincial government.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, who made the announcement with UBCM president, Kamloops Mayor Peter Wing, said it will probably be at least a year before any results are made public.

Mayor Wing said: "I'm very pleased — and proud — I might say — to say that for the first time both the municipalities and the provincial government are in complete unanimity on this vital question."

NEED NEW DETAILS

Mr. Campbell said the machinery of local government for the 1970s, as far as legislation is concerned, has been modernized. Now, he said, there is a need to obtain new and accurate details of financial relationships in urban areas, as well as taxation in relation to quality of service.

"In the past, in my opinion," Mr. Campbell said, "royal commissions have not contributed much in the way of objective data concerning the relationships between the various levels of government, and on the quality of services received by local taxpayers in relation to the level of taxes they pay."

ADVERSARIES OF THEORIES
The minister said this was true of the recently completed Ontario royal commission on municipal finance, which took 4½ years to complete at a cost of some $5,000,000.

Apart from the question of cost, he added, the commissions had to cope with a basic disadvantage — the parties appearing before them, except

U.S. Told to Wake Up 'Before It's Too Late'

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock, the famed pediatrician-author, was sentenced to two years in prison and was fined $5,000 Wednesday for anti-draft activities, but shortly afterward promised to continue active opposition to the Vietnam war.

Spock, 65, was convicted with three other men June 14 on federal charges of conspiring to counsel, aid and abet young men to avoid the draft.

Two-year prison sentences also were imposed on Yale University chaplain William Sloan Coffin Jr., 43; author Mitchell Goodman, 44, of Temple, Me.; and Harvard graduate student Michael Feber, 23. Coffin and Goodman were fined $5,000 and Feber was fined $1,000.

U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford stayed the sentences and continued the defendants' $1,000 bonds pending their appeals to the U.S. Circuit Court.

Addressing a news conference after the sentencing, Spock repeated his contention that the Vietnam war is illegal, an argument that Judge Ford rejected as a defense at the trial.

"I'm still not convinced that I broke any law. There's not a shred of legality in the Vietnam war," the pediatrician said in a loud voice, sometimes breaking with emotion.

"I certainly intend to go on writing against the war in appearance across the country," he said.

Pounding on a table, he said: "I say wake up. Get out there and do something before it's too late. This war could be stopped if millions of Americans stood up and shouted: 'Let's stop this war!'"

Visitor Total 4,000,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Man and His World's attendance reached the 4,000,000 mark Wednesday as warm and sunny weather continued to bring visitors to the city's permanent summer exhibition.

Croux

Britain Sending Veteran Envoy

LONDON (CP) — Sir Colin Croux, 54-year-old career diplomat, will be Britain's next high commissioner in Canada. It was announced Wednesday.

He is expected to take over in September from Sir Henry Lintott, 59, who will retire after holding the post since October, 1963. The foreign office said.

Croux served in China from 1936 to 1940 and in Washington from 1940-45. He also worked in Paris, Tel Aviv, Cairo and at the United Nations in New York where he was deputy British representative from 1952 to 1963. He was ambassador to Saudi Arabia from 1963-64.

He is at present one of the key men in merging the Commonwealth and foreign offices. His official title is chief of the diplomatic administration service.

Postal Strike Set for July 18

MONTREAL (CP) — Postal union leaders said Wednesday a nationwide strike of 24,000 workers will be held July 18.

At a mass meeting of postal employees at an east-end arena, Marcel Perreault, local president of the Canadian Union of Postal Employees, and Maurice Briere, president of Montreal of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, told their members

July 18 is the date set for a walkout unless the Council of Postal Union Workers, in charge of strike arrangements, decides otherwise.

They said this date is seven days after completion of a conciliation report by a three-man conciliation board, thus making the strike legal, thus making the strike legal, thus making the strike legal.

The union leaders said they understood the report contains no pay increase. If this were so it cleared the way for a national strike.

Questioned by members about the date of the strike, Perreault said it could be changed but did not believe it would be set beyond July 28.

Jubenville Urges 'No'

By DON COLLINS

Settlement came to the long, boisterous forest industry dispute Wednesday, but within hours its permanency was under a cloud of doubt.

A memorandum of two-year agreement signed in the afternoon split the union negotiating team down the middle, and the bitter dissent is scheduled to spill over the rank and file.

It appeared that more than half of the 26,000 to 28,000 forest workers involved might be advised by their bargainers to reject the agreement.

Two of the International Woodworkers of America negotiators who will seek this end are Syd Thompson and Weldon Jubenville. Mr. Thompson is president of the 7,000-member Vancouver local and Mr. Jubenville is his counterpart in the 4,000-strong Duncan local.

They expect support from the 4,000-member Port Alberni local, where Walter Allen is president.

They have aimed their wrath at Jack Moore of Vancouver, regional IWA president, for what they call "lack of leadership," and at Victoria local president Murray Drew.

Mr. Drew, who made the motion to accept the two-year offer from the 114 forest companies, was accused by some of the others of threatening to pull his 1,500-member local out of negotiations if the pact wasn't signed.

The agreement was signed an hour before the 4,000 members of the loggers' local were scheduled to strike.

ALREADY OUT

The loggers had set a separate strike deadline of 4 p.m. Wednesday and about 500 had already walked off the job by the time the settlement was made known.

If the rank and file accept what they have been offered, they will get 35 cents an hour on top of a basic rate of $2.76 in two 15-cent stages during the two years of the agreement.

But the companies did not budge on the holiday demands and some of the other fringe requests of the IWA.

For those making the basic rate, the 35 cents will represent a 13.434-per-cent wage

Moscow Escalates Attack On Czech Reform Drive

General on Prague TV:

'New Situation Has Arisen'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Czech newspapers demanded an explanation Wednesday for the continued presence of Soviet troops in the nation. A spokesman for the government said a "new situation" had arisen on the issue and that there would be discussions.

The newspapers asked why Soviet troops had stayed in Czechoslovakia after the conclusion of Warsaw Pact manoeuvres, which ended 11 days ago. The demands put Czech anxiety over the presence of Soviet troops into the open.

Lt. Gen. Vazlav Prchlik appeared on Czech television Wednesday night and was asked why Russian troops still were on Czech soil.

"Apparently a new situation has arisen," he said. "There will be new negotiations on the matter. For the time being I cannot give any answer to questions. Let's stick to the old proverb: The morning is wiser than the evening."

Prchlik said he would speak further on the situation today.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda says "counterrevolutionary forces" in Czechoslovakia are trying to exploit "the unstable situation" in that country to undermine communism.

It was the sharpest attack yet by an official Soviet organ on elements in Czechoslovakia that have been pushing Prague's new reform Communist leadership for faster liberalization.

The language of the Pravda article and an earlier published attack by a Moscow newspaper suggest that the Soviets believe the Czechoslovak reform drive is slipping out of control.

GRAVE TERM

The term "counterrevolutionary" is a grave one in the communist lexicon, meaning those who oppose the established rule of the party. When Russian tanks rolled into Budapest 12 years ago it was to crush a Hungarian "counterrevolution."

Pravda writer I. Alexandrov says efforts are under way "to smear and discredit the Communist party of Czechoslovakia ... to undermine the foundations of the state."

Kootenay-Banff Parks

Tourists Flee Blaze

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Some 100 tourists were told to leave the Marble Canyon Camp ground 25 miles west of here late Wednesday as a 2,000-acre forest fire blazed its way towards the area.

Officials did not report any persons missing or injured, but three persons trapped by the fire in Kootenay National Park, 30 miles west of here, had to be rescued by helicopter.

The three, all from Toronto, were identified as Archibald McQuade and his two daughters, Theresa, 16, and Bernadette, 13.

They were of a family of five, holidaying in the area.

A Banff national park official said Mrs. McQuade and the couple's son Richard, 15, were found on the Banff-Windermere Highway. They had stayed behind while McQuade and his daughters explored the Stanley Glacier area when advancing flames blocked their return to the highway.

Keith Pivman, the park official, said experts did not expect the fire to overrun the Marble Canyon camp ground.

The nearest settlement in the path of the fire was the 12-unit Storm Mountain lodge, about 20 miles west of here. Guests staying at the lodge were told to leave. Late in the evening, the fire had approached within one mile of the lodge.

The forest fire started in British Columbia's Kootenay Park Tuesday, and crested into Alberta Wednesday afternoon. By evening the blaze had advanced two miles into Alberta.

Some 200 men from the Alberta and B.C. forestry services were fighting to contain the fire, believed to have been started by a lightning storm. Students holidaying in the area were also recruited.

Four water bombers were pressed into service and a 25-
